Young Wife, on Entering Prison, Is Relieved of Stylish Clothes, Jewels

(By United Press)
SAN QUENTIN, Aug. 14.—San Quentin's steel doors opened at 9:30 a. m., today, to allow Mrs. Bernice Day to begin her 1-to-4-year sentence for throwing acid in her husband's face.

She arrived from Los Angeles in custody of Deputy Sheriff Jack King, whose wife accompanied her as matron. Mrs. Day's mother, Mrs. Grace Lunstrom, was at the side of the pretty girl, who, as a jealous bride, disguised the face of her husband, Darby Day Jr., son of a wealthy Chicago family.

Standards saw no tears nor evidence of strong emotion as Mrs. Day viewed San Quentin, for the first time, from the trans-bay ferry. There were no tears as she said: "Goodbye, mother; I hope to see you soon."

She was not heard to mention her husband.

After entering the prison, she was formally introduced into the women's quarters, where matrons and attendants took her fashionable clothes in exchange for the plain prison dress and stripped her of money and jewelry.

San Diego News Man Held On Charge of Sending Obscene Matter in Mails

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Eight residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea were subpoenaed today as defense witnesses in the case of four newsmen, accused of selling papers containing an obscene article attacking Aimee Semple McPherson.

Attorney Milton Golden, representing the accused news vendors, said he expected to uncover "many sensational" through testimony of the Carmel witnesses and the evangelist and district attorney.

"Their testimony will be very material to the defense," he said. "I cannot reveal my plans in detail, but if they develop it will be a sensational trial."

Witnesses subpoenaed today included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Benedict, owner of the Carmel cottage occupied for 10 days last May by Kenneth G. Ormiston and an unidentified woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parkes, next door neighbors.

Ralph S. Swanson, employee of a Carmel grocery store, who delivered groceries to the bungalow.

Daisy Bostick, who rented the bungalow to Ormiston.

Ernest A. Renkert, who delivered a load of wood to the cottage.

William Mack, employee of a Carmel realty company.

"These witnesses will be called to tell their stories of what took place in the Carmel cottage and who they saw," said Attorney Golden. "They will be asked to identify, if they can, the occupants of the bungalow, which has figured so prominently in the investigation of Mrs. McPherson's disappearance."

The accused news vendors are Sam J. Steinberg, Heiney Smith, John D. Brooks and Manuel Goodman. They are charged with selling copies of the San Diego Herald, containing an article on Mrs. McPherson, on Los Angeles streets.

A Ray Sager, editor of the paper, was arrested by federal agents at San Diego yesterday, on charges of sending obscene literature through the mails.

Charges Against Suspended Dry Director Are to Be Investigated

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews announced today that he intends to make a thorough investigation of the case of Col. Ned M. Green, suspended California and Nevada dry administrator, "next week."

"All I can say about the matter now is that it was very disheartening from the army officer's point of view," Andrews said. "I had complete confidence in Col. Green, as a former army officer."

Andrews said that he had not considered naming a successor to Green.

Andrews said today that he is not considering resigning from his post as "dry chief" at this time, and indicated he may stay in office until after the next session of congress.

Andrews, holding his first conference with newspapermen in Washington since he returned from London, predicted the liquor situation would be under control within a year. He pointed out, however, that progress depends largely on dry legislation now awaiting congressional action.

The dry administrator announced that personnel, salaries and objectives would be discussed at the meeting of regional prohibition administrators here, September 10. After the conference, a tour of the Mexican and Canadian borders is planned by Andrews.

Masked Men Bind Clerks and Rob Car

Conceal Selves in Union Pacific Coach and Cover Postal Workers with Gun

28 SACKS ARE RIFLED

Outlaws Flee in Wyoming, Carrying with Them Unknown Amount of Booty

(By United Press)
GREEN RIVER, Wyo., Aug. 14.—Two masked bandits, who concealed themselves in a mail car of the westbound fast mail No. 5, of the Union Pacific, early today, robbed the registered mail car of an undetermined amount and escaped.

According to the story told here by A. J. Miller and Jack Madigan, the two clerks in the car, the bandits concealed themselves in a car used only for storing mail, and in which clerks enter only for sacks, which they take into the "working car" for sorting.

After the train had left Rawlins, one of the clerks from the registered "working car" entered the storage car. The two robbers covered him with guns and tied him. They then went into the "working car" and got the other clerk, whom they also bound and brought into the storage car.

Upon Registered Mail

By locking the doors of the "working car," the bandits were assured of not being disturbed and they opened 28 sacks of registered mail.

It is not known whether they got off at Wamsutter or at Rock Springs, since the two men in the storage car were not discovered until the train left Rock Springs.

The mail car, when examined by railroad officials here, was a mass of torn papers, jewelry, bonds and other matter contained in the registered letters.

The bandits were only in search of valuable jewelry and money, as bonds, cheap jewelry and other matter contained in the letters was discarded.

Mail for Northwest

Most of the mail was for the Pacific northwest. The robbers were well acquainted with the working methods of mail clerks and train crew, officials here said today. They also were characterized as being professionals, as the robbery apparently was carried out without a hitch.

The train is one of the fastest and longest in the country, being made up of mail coaches only and running from New York to the Pacific coast.

Postal officials will make an investigation at Ogden, Utah, and try to determine the amount of money and valuables taken.

BANDIT GETS VALUABLES IN STREET HOLDUP

W. L. Blair, Garden Grove business man, was held up at the point of a pistol, last night, on a Garden Grove street, and robbed of $10 in cash, his watch and three rings, according to a report filed today with the sheriff's office.

Blair reported that he had just closed his place of business and was walking to his home, when an unmasked bandit, dressed in white, ordered him to "stick up" his hands and deliver his valuables.

The watch was a valuable one, as were the rings, it was said. An automatic pistol was used by the holdup man, who, after the robbery, escaped by running along the railroad track, toward Stanton, it was reported.

Deputy sheriffs today were investigating the holdup.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury this morning in Huntington Beach, in an inquest over the body of Rome Wineinger, 39, of 1014 California avenue, Long Beach, a carpenter, who late yesterday afternoon fell 42 feet from an oil derrick in the beach town.

Wineinger, an employee of Claude R. Nickerson, of 1335 American avenue, Long Beach, was at work on a Julian Oil company derrick when the accident occurred. According to fellow employees, Wineinger lost his balance while engaged in putting a board in place on the rig, which was under construction.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Wineinger is survived by his wife, Mrs. Etta Wineinger, of Long Beach, and a 13-year-old son, in Kentucky.

BROKER TESTS ABANDONED BY S. A. REALTORS

Examination of all applicants for real estate brokers' or salesmen's licenses was abandoned by the Santa Ana Realty Board yesterday, at the regular meeting of the organization, at Ketter's cafe. Prospective real estate dealers will receive application blanks and take an examination before the state commission in Los Angeles. The final abandonment of the examining board by the Santa Ana realtors came after several weeks of deliberation. It was reported at the meeting yesterday that the Santa Ana board was the only one in Southern California which was continuing the practice, boards in other cities, including San Diego and Los Angeles, having turned the examinations over to the state organization.

Plans for the Orange County Association of Realty boards picnic, to be held at Orange County park, Saturday, August 21, were announced by Herbert Aleman and Freeman Bloodgood, two members of the committee in charge of the affair. Plans are being made for an attendance of more than 200 persons. Aleman is in charge of the refreshment committee and Bloodgood is in charge of the sports program. Music for dancing will be available, according to Bloodgood.

A real estate brokers' license should not be granted to any person who has not served an apprenticeship of one year as a salesman, according to the opinion of a number of Santa Ana realtors, who yesterday requested Frank Pope to suggest the matter at the meeting of the directors of the California Real Estate association, in Santa Barbara, today. The local realtors declare that "tramp" salesmen and brokers ruin much business for the realtor who is depending on his sales for a living. The local men also abridged the eastern man who comes to California, has no sense of property value, yet secures a real estate license and proceeds to make his expenses during two or three months' stay in California, at the expense of resident realtors.

Many local realtors will be guests of the Lions club, next Thursday night, it was announced by Jack Wallace, president of the Realty board.

The calves were pure bred animals, each a month old and weighing from 125 to 150 pounds each. Deputy Sheriffs Adams and McClellan are investigating.

FRAUD CHARGE IS PREFERRED AGAINST TRIO

Three Los Angeles real estate dealers, who were arrested at midnight in Los Angeles on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, today were freed on bail after being arraigned in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

The men, E. A. Ferrin, 68, Kermit hotel, Los Angeles; E. S. Naly, 1831 West Sixty-eighth street, Los Angeles, and Clark W. Decker, 45, 1249 Magnolia avenue, Los Angeles, were arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Jim Smith and Don Mozley on a complaint issued at the instance of Marguerite Cruickshank, Santa Ana, who alleges that they induced her to sign a note for $5000 with which to incorporate a certain company, being forced. The note was said to have been signed about December 1, 1925.

The company was incorporated under the laws of Delaware and no such sum of money was needed, Mrs. Cruickshank told Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley.

Preliminary examinations were set for the men for August 19, at 10 a. m., in Justice Morrison's court. Ferrin and Naly were released when they made bail for $3000 each and Decker was released on his own recognizance.

RETIRED SOLDIER JAILED FOR THEFT

Bourdon has been arrested several times within the last year, the charges before being that he took newspapers from racks at Fourth and Main streets, officers said. Heretofore he had escaped punishment, they said.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 14.—Clinical examination into the outstanding problems of international relationships goes on actively and unostentatiously at historic Williams college here each August.

Men of note in educational, political, and scientific fields gather from both sides of the Atlantic to study international questions intensively and exchange views, that a better understanding between the peoples of the earth may be reached.

Their leader is Harry Augustus Garfield, president of the Williams college, and the eldest son of a president of the United States. The "Institute of Politics," is the name given to the sessions. Garfield is the institute's organizer and chairman.

Draws World Attention

This year's institute is the sixth which Garfield has headed. Though non-political save in its subject matter and entirely non-official, the institute year by year is attracting the attention of statesmen in all major nations as an agency of international amity and helpfulness.

Unique features mark this expert probing of problems common to the great countries.

Membership in the institute is extended by invitation only. Round table discussions are emphasized in the problems, and only scholars and thinkers qualified to contribute to these discussions are asked to attend.

Men high in the councils of foreign governments mingle with educators and scientists as lecturers before the institute. They live together in college dormitories, and seek recreation together in the Berkshire hills.

As a result, misunderstandings between nations is being cleared away for the benefit of small but influential groups each year.

Education in World Affairs

"Adult education on world affairs is our purpose," Dr. Garfield explains. "We spread no propaganda and adopt no resolutions."

"There are no restrictions on the exchange either of facts or ideas such as exist at all official gatherings. Close personal association contributes to the humanistic spirit of our studies."

Printed reports of the information advanced at the institute are distributed each year. There is further diffusion of it through those participating.

The studies reach into little-advertised sources of conflict between nations and races sometimes. This year, chemistry's part in world progress is a topic for one of the lecture courses.

Prospects of laboratory discoveries so affecting human life as to overturn all concepts of national ambition and rivalry will be discussed.

Must Foster Trust

An analysis of the extent to which national policies are dictated by public opinion also will be given. World peace is debated only as a corollary to world understanding at the institute.

"No one knows yet what the future relationship of the nations is to be," says Dr. Garfield. "We know only that it must be something based on mutual conception, trust and confidence."

Dr. Garfield first mapped out his plans for the annual Institute of Politics in 1913. The war delayed the first one until 1921.

Bernard Baruch financed the first three sessions. Baruch, the General Education board and the Carnegie corporation have paid expenses of the succeeding ones.

Lecturers from abroad receive their expenses and an honorarium.

JETHRO'S WISE COUNSEL
Text: Exod. 18:13-24

And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat to judge the people; and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening.

And when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did to his people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest to thy people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even?

And Moses said unto his father-in-law, Because the people come unto me to enquire of God:

When they have a matter, they come unto me; and I judge between one and another, and I do make them know the statutes of God, and his laws.

And Moses' father-in-law said unto him, The thing that thou doest is not good.

Thou wilt surely wear away, both thou and this people that is with thee; for this thing is too heavy for thee; thou art not able to perform it thyself alone.

Hearken now unto my voice, I will give thee counsel, and God shall be with thee; and thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt show them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do.

Moreover thou shalt provide out of all the people able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness; and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens:

And let them judge the people at all seasons; and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge; so shall it be easier for thyself, and they shall bear the burden with thee.

If thou shalt do this thing, and God command thee so, then thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go to their place in peace.

So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congregationalist—Our lesson brings us interesting light upon the social organization of Israel and upon the nature of a true political ideal. One must not see in incidents in the past the expression of modern ways of thinking and of democratic theories, but none the less we have what may be interpreted as a manifestation of the essence of democracy.

Moses was sitting as a judge of his people in much the same way that a modern sheriff acts as judge in relation to his tribesmen. If any member of Israel had a grievance against his fellow, he had an opportunity of bringing it to the judgment seat where Moses sat. It looked like a beautiful arrangement, that the leader and savior of his people should be the arbiter between them in all their disputes. Surely no wiser or more honest judge could have been found than Moses; no one better fitted to hear all matters of dispute and make a wise decision.

Saw Dangers—But Jethro, the father-in-law of Moses, saw with a clearness which Moses did not perceive it, the weakness of such a system. What Moses was doing represented really the concentration of power in the hands of one man, and though Moses was an unselfish and conscientious man, well fitted to exercise that power, which in the hands of a less scrupulous leader of his people might become very dangerous.

Moreover, Jethro saw that such a system was placing altogether too heavy a burden upon Moses, and that a task not performed well and competently was only going to produce dissension and dissatisfaction; so he urged what we would call today the decentralization of power. He suggested that better organization was the method of solving this problem, by localizing matters of judgment and deputing various persons appointed over

WEDDING RINGS FOR MEN BEING URGED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—The modern girl does not wear enough clothing to hang jewelry on. William R. Cooper of Minneapolis, told the National Wholesale Jewelers' association, in annual convention here. Cooper is president of the organization.

"As a result," he said, "the women of today are taking to wearing expensive jewelry out of sight of the male glance, such as jeweled garter buckles and lingerie sets. 'I believe the feminine love of jewelry is finding expression in this manner, for there is no marked falling off in sales. Shoe buckles of expensive workmanship are popular, as well as earrings.'"

Conrad J. Brotherton, Newark, N. J., president of the National Retail Jewelers' association, told the convention that his organization planned to urge the wearing of engagement and wedding rings by men. The proposal was endorsed by the Rev. Dr. Augustus Pohlman, of Philadelphia, who delivered the invocation at the convention of the convention of the Pennsylvania Retail Jewelers' association, which is being held in conjunction with the national organization.

U. S. Supplies Gum To Entire World

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Uncle Sam is supplying the world with chewing-gum. His trade in this indispensable appurtenance of stenographers increased more in 1925 than did any other branch of the foreign candy trade. Commerce department statistics disclose that $4,536,010 of American confectionery, including gum, chocolate and other sweets, was sold abroad last year, as compared with $3,516,000, the year before, and $1,469,000 in 1913.

AUTHORITIES IN AUSTRALIA ASK MORE CONTROL

SYDNEY, Aug. 14.—The federal government of Australia is taking a page from the philosophy of Premier Benito Mussolini. It has called on the people to pass stringent controls over capital and labor, strikes, trade unionism and the essential service of the country.

A referendum will be held September 4 on two questions, giving the commonwealth greater powers in commerce and industry. These, if voted, will confer on the federal government authority like that given by the syndical laws now operating in Italy.

However, political parties are so divided on the questions that it is said it will be impossible for the referendum to carry.

Under federal constitution powers inherent in the various states are retained by them, except those specifically reserved to the commonwealth. To add to or subtract from the powers of the federal parliament, the proposed alterations must be submitted to the people by referendum. To be of value the proposed amendments must be carried by a majority of the votes cast in a majority of states and also a majority of votes cast throughout the whole of Australia.

The first question, dealing with trade and industry, relates to five amendments to the constitution. They are:

To give parliament control over both local or foreign corporations, except municipal and government corporations and those formed for eleemosynary or charitable purposes.

To give parliament power to prevent and settle all industrial disputes intrastate as well as interstate.

To enable parliament or any court created by it to regulate and determine the terms and conditions of industrial employment throughout the commonwealth.

To empower the federal parliament to delegate to the states power to establish tribunals, or otherwise determine industrial disputes.

To regulate all trusts and combines in restraint of trade, trade unions and associations of employees, and employers for industrial purposes, including the promotion, regulation, control and dissolution thereof.

These points, if carried, will give the federal parliament full power and authority over the guidance of trade unions throughout the commonwealth.

The second referendum is clear

Wife Alleges Husband Ate Like Hog

Mrs. Mamie E. Bonham told her friends that her husband was uncouth and ate like a hog; also that she wished that he, having gone on a vacation, would fall over a cliff and kill himself. So declared Leland S. Bonham, in his suit for divorce, just filed in superior court through Attorney W. H. Thomas. The Bonhams, it is said, have separated but are still living under the same roof. They were married in Imperial in 1914 and separated last January.

Plague Invoked On Short Skirts

ANGERS, France, Aug. 14.—The plague of Egypt was called down upon short skirts in a prayer published in a parish magazine here. Swarms of wasps, flies and mosquitoes and other poisonous insects were invoked in the prayer, to punish the supposedly shameless women who display themselves with curtailed covering.

A more gentle punishment was asked for children considered guilty of wearing garments insufficiently covering them. The prayer asked simply that the butterflies of the fields might be directed to alight on these children to cover their shame. The diocese of Angers has long been noted for its strict puritanism.

and short. It simply asks that section 51 of the constitution be amended to give the federal parliament power to protect the interests of the public in case of actual or probable interruption of any of the essential services.

Prime Minister Bruce regards the latter referendum as essential to the peace and good order of the commonwealth. At present, if a strike affecting transport, food supplies or defense should break out, the federal government could take no such steps as were taken by the British government on the occasion of the recent general strike.

WHAT DOES AN

examination mean to you? Is it worthy of your consideration if you are sick? Would you be willing to spend a few minutes today in order to determine exactly what is causing your trouble, if in doing so you are put to no expense and are under no obligation in any way? We are certain you would. Then if you are willing, act at once as it may save you a great deal of suffering later on. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Health is the result of perfect co-ordination of all the organs of the body; however, if these parts are not co-ordinating one with another the result is sickness and disease. Are your kidneys, lungs, bowels, spleen, stomach pancreas, heart liver and bladder working as they should? If not, how can you expect to be well? Disorders, such as toxic poisoning, asthma, constipation, diabetes, indigestion, weak heart, biliousness, bladder trouble, lumbago, rheumatism, headache, nervousness and that tired, worn-out feeling which comes over you in the morning when you should be at your best are results of a weakened condition of some of the above organs. This weakness is directly due to a pressure on the nerves supplying functional energy to the affected parts. Without this nerve force or energy no part of the body will work as it should. A FREE!

X-Ray examination will show the exact location and extent of this pressure. That is why we use it in our work. We would no more think of adjusting a patient without an X-Ray picture than a carpenter would think of building a house without a rule. Pueblo House-guest Is Complimented By Hostess

J. H. Halsey of the Colorado city. The party was not held at the Ketter home on North Main street, but instead, the hostess assembled her guests at that favorite spot for entertaining among Santa Ana hostesses, the gold room of the Ketter confectionary store.

There, quantities of vivid carnations added their festive note to the scene, combined with the gold enameled furnishings to offer a charming setting for the guests. Attractive bits of needlework were produced and the friendly group stiched and chatted the afternoon away.

At 4 o'clock, small tables were arranged for serving a most delicious tea menu with a very special fruit frappe and other dainties.

Mrs. Halsey, the complimented guest, left yesterday afternoon for a short visit with relatives in Whittier but will return to be the guest of Mrs. Ketter again ere her departure for Pueblo.

Among those who were called together to greet her, were several who have definitely established homes in Southern California while others are merely sojourning for a brief interval. Those present included, in addition to hostess and honoree, Mrs. Ketter and Mrs. Halsey, Mrs. W. J. Nafe, Mrs. N. R. Cullings and Mrs. Eliza Evans, all of Pueblo; Mrs. W. R. Hildreth, Mrs. A. A. Rolleston, Mrs. Anna Simpson and daughter Elizabeth, Mrs. C. H. Cheney, Mrs. Cowles, Mrs. J. H. Crow, Long Beach; Mrs. Sherman Fosdick, Los Angeles; Mrs. George Roe, Mrs. G. H. Roe, Glendale; Mrs. May Sampson, Whittier and Miss Alice Haines, Santa Ana.

Son Comes from East To Visit Mother

W. H. Sutton of Boone, Ia., has arrived in Santa Ana for a three weeks' visit with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Collins of 1636 East Fourth street, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Sutton, who makes her home with Mrs. Collins. As Mrs. Sutton was 99 years old in June her son's visit is in the form of a birthday gift. He had not seen her since he accompanied her to California 11 years ago. S. W. Sutton of North Spurgeon street is a brother of W. H. Sutton.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Mary Mudd of Greensburg, Ky., who has been spending the summer with her brother, W. B. Blakeman of 825 North Ross street, has left for her home in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Strock left Thursday over the Santa Fe railroad for the east. They plan to spend some time at the Sequoy Centennial exposition at Philadelphia and will also visit New York City, Washington, D. C., Boston, Detroit, Chicago and Denver. They will be gone about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Norton of 301 West First street are entertaining Mrs. J. B. Flanagan of Los Angeles for the week-end.

Mrs. I. L. Brisendine, 422 West First street, has as a guest her brother, the Rev. A. N. Glover, and Mrs. Glover, of Huntington Park. The Rev. Glover will occupy the pulpit at the Christian church tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Charles Swanner, 2341 Bonnie Brae, had as her guests Thursday night Miss Emma Nelson and Miss May Newquist of Upland. Miss Nelson and Mrs. Swanner were school mates in Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Myrtle Miller, Mrs. Sarah Sweetie, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Marion Hutton, of Whittier, left today for Big Bear where they will spend their vacation. Their husbands motored them to the cabin, and will return to the mountain camp next Sunday to bring the vacationing wives back home. Miss Edith Nichols and Joseph Carr accompanied the party to Big Bear. Mrs. Miller is employed in the telephone office, and Mrs. Hutton at a Santa Ana dry goods store.

Mrs. Drake of the Peerless cafeteria, returned last night from a delightful vacation spent in San Diego.

Mrs. Annie Ott, 610 West Third street, Mrs. Joseph Slotter, 320 West Second street, and Mrs. James P. Ryan, 320 West Second street, will leave tomorrow, by automobile, for Murietta Hot Springs, to spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. West and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mize, today departed by automobile for a trip to the Grand canyon of Arizona. They will be absent two weeks, contemplating passing most of the time at the big gorge.

NEW SHADE COMBINATION FEATURE OF MANY COSTUMES AT POPULAR RESORT

A trio of socially famous—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Earl T. Smith (Consuelo Vanderbilt) and William K. Vanderbilt Jr.—snapped at Saratoga.

There are countless summer resorts in this country, but only one Saratoga.

This old-fashioned town, a fashionable resort before the Civil war, with its old-fashioned hotels, its baths its famous water cures and its famous racing, is our nearest approach to the European spa.

Here are velvet lawns, rambling buildings, wide verandas and triple rows of rocking chairs, horses and pheasants, race track, touts and professional gamblers in loud clothes and flashy diamonds—but here also is the social set. Everyone comes here for August, and devotes himself or herself studiously to the great attraction of the place—horse racing.

Blue and Yellow
Second in importance only to the horses are the gowns worn by the women. And the first day's impression this year is that the important colors of the moment are blue and yellow.

The blue is that deep clear blue that was called lead pencil a season or so back, but probably has some new name now—and the yellow is the shade of buttercups or mustard.

Scarcely had Mrs. Payne Whitney seated herself in her box, on the opening day, dressed in a printed crepe de chine frock of this deep blue and white, with a wide brimmed blue hat with a bunch of yellow buttercups at the side before Piffi Widener breezed into the adjoining box with a huge hat of exactly the same shade as Mrs. Whitney's, with a yellow flower on its brim.

As the writer was registering some astonishment at the similarity of their millinery, Mrs. P. A. B. Widener seated herself behind Piffi in a gray silk frock, banded in deep blue and rose color and on her shapely head was a huge blue straw hat of the same shade as Mrs. Whitney's and Piffi's.

And right behind her sat Mrs. Almond T. Baker, formerly Mrs. Alfred Gynne Vanderbilt—and what was she wearing but a blue and white printed silk costume, with a pleated skirt and short jacket, and a small hat—blue beneath and yellow on top with yellow flowers on one side!

Well, that settled it for me. When those four women vote unanimously for anything, you can safely assume that it is going to be a sartorial law.

Need Ivory Skin
The writer can't give you any tips on the races, but she can advise you to play blue and yellow for all you are worth.

While you do, however, remember that this particularly vivid blue is not the easiest color in the world to wear. And that if nature did not give you a clear ivory colored skin you will be driven to chemical co-operation to achieve it.

As for the popularity of the large hat, I no longer can question it. Practically every piece of millinery here is wide as to brim, and fitted as to crown.

Last year I remember that women wore the small felt hat, no matter how elaborate their costumes were. This year, they wear the huge hat, no matter how simple their frocks are.

There is very little trace of the tailored mode of last season. Laces, chiffons, and the most feminine types of dresses prevail.

Elect Wear Large Hats
Mrs. Earl T. Smith, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, was wearing a printed chiffon, with white chiffon bands—and a narrow sash of beige and green gros-grain ribbons tied down the back, and a large white hat.

Vanderbilt, was the only woman seen wearing a fur neckpiece—she had a light beige colored fox thrown about her shoulders. It just matched the feather on her black hat. Her dress was a printed crepe with many colors, with a sash of the silk at the side.

Perhaps the honors for the largest hat should rightfully go to Mrs. John Warner, formerly Emily Smith, daughter of the governor of New York. It was considerably wider than her shoulders, and was of natural colored straw banded with gros-grain ribbon of a darker tint.

Printed Chiffon
Her frock was a printed chiffon in which blue and pink flowers were arrayed on a white background, and blue and pink gros-grain ribbon formed the collar and cuffs. There were inserts of plain blue chiffon on the bodice. Her coat, which she carried, was a light wool affair in a mottled blue and rose that appeared to be a straight wrap-around affair.

Mrs. R. T. Wilson, in whose box Major and Mrs. Warner sat, was in a most interesting costume of crepe roma in a color that shaded from a deep pink to a deeper raspberry. Her hat was of velvet, with many colored flowers in shades of rose. Her daughter, Marion, wore a simple frock of Nile green silk crepe, and a perfectly huge green hat to match.

Mrs. Goodlow McDowell wore a simple gray chiffon frock with gray pleated ruffles, but gave it considerable dash by her millinery.

Not All Here Yet
Mrs. Joseph Widener was distinctive as always, in a medium-sized black hat and green and white printed crepe frock. I noticed two very handsome diamond pins were stuck through the crown of her hat.

The absence of jewels and furs is conspicuous this year. In former years the wrap, banded or collared with summer fur, has always been in evidence no matter how warm the day, but this year fur is absolutely out of the picture.

As for jewelry—with the exception of a finger or so, and a few slavebracelets and a few jeweled hat pins—it isn't represented either. However, all the fashionables have not yet arrived. The jewelry may come later.

The Last House on the Street!

OUT BEYOND the residential district, far from the local business center, schools and churches, stands "The Last House on the Street."

Time was when the occupant of this house had few of the modern conveniences of metropolitan America such as Gas Service.

Not so today!

Our consumer living in "The Last House on the Street" today enjoys the very same convenient gas service as though living next door to the Gas Office. From distribution center to this last house your company's mains carry a steady supply of dependable, economical gas.

During the warm summer months as well as on the coldest days of winter the pressure on our gas mains must not vary. To this end our entire organization strives throughout the year, remembering always that "The Last House on the Street" and thousands of others are depending upon our Gas Service for their daily meals, hot water and winter warmth.

PURPOSES OF NON-PARTISAN CLUB OUTLINED

Following several weeks of organization, the Veterans Non-Partisan Association of Orange County now is ready to function and already has started work, according to a statement made today by M. B. Wellington, Santa Ana attorney, who is permanent chairman of the organization.

Purposes of the organization were announced today after a meeting of the executive committee, held last night, and are as follows:

1. To effect a permanent continuing organization of all men and women in Orange county, California, who have given honorable service in time of war in any of the military or naval forces of the United States, and to include, as members of the association, the mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of such persons.

2. To urge upon all such persons the duties they owe to the principals of democracy to exercise the principals of their voting franchise.

3. To give publicity and support to those service and state plans and measures believed to be in accord with and in furtherance of the principles and constitutions of ex-service men's organizations.

4. To induce no candidate for office, but, on the contrary, to urge upon all members the duty they owe their country in personally investigating the fitness and qualifications of candidates and, having reached a decision, to follow the dictates of their own mind.

The Veterans Non-Partisan association executive committee has endorsed the 20-million dollar bond issue on the ballot for the building of homes for ex-service men and will ask the organization, as a whole, to support it. The bond issue is proposition No. 1 on the ballot.

The Swing-Johnson bill also was endorsed and the adoption of it will be asked by the executive committee of the main body.

Plans are being made for the holding of an open meeting in the Santa Ana American Legion hall, on Birch street, on the night of August 24, at which time all candidates for local offices will be invited and allowed time in which to address the members of the organization.

400 Will Be Present
Approximately 400 voters will be present at the meeting and it will be one of the final opportunities of the candidates to put their cause before the people of Santa Ana and Orange county.

Each speaker will be allowed three minutes and fines will be levied against those who overrun their time, Colonel Wellington said.

Other important business also is scheduled to come up before the meeting at that time, it was said.

ADDRESSES IN BEHALF OF 3 GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATES HEARD BY REPUBLICAN CLUB

Members of the Young Men's Republican Club of Orange county last night, in Huntington Beach, listened to three speakers on behalf of candidates for the Republican nomination for governor. The organization voted to hold a rally in Santa Ana on the evening of August 27, to which the wives of the members and all candidates will be invited.

A resolution, endorsing one of the candidates for the Republican nomination, which, it was said, would be presented at the Huntington Beach meeting, did not materialize.

State Senator W. J. Carr, of Pasadena, spoke on behalf of the candidacy of Lt. Gov. C. C. Young.

Mark Herrin, Los Angeles attorney, spoke on behalf of the candidacy of Rex Goodcell.

Leon Whitsell, of Orange, member of the state railroad commission, spoke on behalf of Gov. Friend William Richardson.

Richardson Is Flayed
Governor Richardson, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, was flayed by Carr, in his speech on behalf of Young, opponent of the governor in the primary race.

Carr said that the voters of Orange county should repudiate the present administration on two grounds, if for no other reason, viz: his veto of the metropolitan water bill and his indifference toward the Boulder dam project, as represented by the Swing-Johnson bill.

The speaker charged that never once, during the long-disheartening fight for the dam bill, in committee and before the house, did any representative of the California state administration lift his voice in behalf of the bill or make his presence known as the representative of the governor of California.

Every other state touched by the Boulder canyon dam project was actively and aggressively represented at the conferences and hearings before the house, according to Senator Carr, who explained that he, himself, was present at practically every session, private or public, as the representative of the cities of Pasadena, Los Angeles and Glendale. He said that during the hearings on the bill at the national capital, there was circulated a document, bearing the stamp of the California state printer, in which the statement was made that the state engineers of California recommended a flood control dam, leaving the impression with the representatives of other states that California was divided upon the project. He laid this report directly at the door of the present California administration.

Fought Water Bill
The metropolitan water bill, opposed by the governor, was particularly favorable to Orange county, but because it fitted so well into the Boulder dam project, Governor Richardson fought it, Carr declared.

The metropolitan water bill, he went on to say, was made the target of attack by the henchmen of the governor in the last session of the legislature and seven out of every eight assemblymen, who voted against it, were very closely identified with the interests most closely affiliated with Governor Richardson, Senator Carr charged.

"And the governor exulted in the defeat of that bill, and after the adjournment of the session, issued a statement especially commending the action of the legislature in defeating it," he said.

He went on to say that Governor Richardson lately had made the statement that his engineers had discovered a new and more advantageous location for the Boulder dam, but when State Engineer Paul Bailey was questioned about the proposition, in the presence of Engineer Mulholland, of the Los Angeles bureau of water and power, the engineer had denied that he had found any new route and professed entire ignorance as to the origin of the governor's statement concerning the new location.

Acquainted With Problems
The selection of a governor by the people of California may determine the fate of the dam bill in the national congress, in the opinion of Senator Carr, who pointed out that Lieutenant Governor Young has been hand in glove with those interests promoting the legislation. His espousing of the metropolitan water bill against the Richardson onslaught marks him definitely as being intimately acquainted with the water problems of the state and he should be given the support of far-visioned Californians at the polls August 31, he concluded.

The Boulder dam project is an economic, rather than a political, question and has only been made a political issue by the friends of Lieutenant Governor Young, Leon Whitsell, of Orange, state railroad commissioner, declared in his address.

The railroad commissioner staunchly defended the governor's attitude on the dam project, recalling that in 1921 the governor sent to the legislature a special message, in which he urged the enactment of legislation similar to that of other states on the proposal and in support of the Swing-Johnson bill.

"If Lieutenant Governor Young was so deadly in earnest concerning the sending of a representation to Washington, why didn't he, when he was lieutenant governor, see to it that an appropriation was made to send the delegation to Washington, instead of doing nothing about the matter," he queried.

Whitsell insisted that the governor had done his full duty by directing State Engineer Paul Bailey to make a thorough study of the proposition to determine which plan was the most feasible and practical and to the best interests of the people of California. Whitsell told his hearers that the city of Los Angeles now is carrying on experiments and making a thorough study of the problems of water storage and silt disposal, which must be solved before the dam is constructed.

Editorial Policy Plank

He recalled that Governor Richardson, in San Diego, had stressed the importance of the dam project to the delegates to the National Editorial association convention and that, as the result of his championing of the water conservation program, the national association had made the approval of the enabling act for the building of the dam one of its planks in its national editorial policy.

He answered the argument of a previous speaker, concerning Governor Richardson's veto of the metropolitan water bill, by stating that when the measure originally was introduced, it was pleasing to a large number of Southern California legislators, but when certain amendments were tacked on it by Los Angeles representatives, making the bill practically for the sole benefit of that city, the Southern California and Orange county legislators turned against it and defeated it in keeping with numerous telegrams from influential organizations in the Southland to kill the measure rather than pass it in its amended form.

Whitsell made the claim that there is not a single state commission, under the Richardson administration, but that has saved money under the economy program adhered to by the governor. He cited particularly the railroad commission, to which he was appointed by Governor Richardson, in this regard. The railroad commission, he continued, saved $283,000 in operating expenses and did 20 per cent more business than the previous administration's board in the same length of time.

He referred to Governor Richardson's abundant treatment of Orange county in the way of appointments and the generous apportionment of highway building funds to this county, especially along the sea coast.

Bosses Against Richardson
The governor made the lives of peace officers in California safer by refusing to pardon criminals when the facts in the record did not warrant, Whitsell declared. He refused to allow the political bosses to name his judges for him and that was one of the chief reasons the bosses are against him in the present campaign, was his parting shot.

Governor Richardson "threw the monkey wrench into the Boulder dam situation in Washington and now comes before us as an apostle of that same measure," Mark Herrin, Los Angeles attorney, charged in his speech before the club. Herrin spoke in behalf of the candidacy of Rex B. Goodcell for the Republican nomination for governor.

"Deathbed confessions are not always so good for the soul, especially when the patient recovers," he said. He also challenged the right of Lieutenant Governor Young to pose as the father of the Boulder dam legislation. Rex Goodcell was a member of the caucus that selected Phil Swing to run for congress on a Boulder dam platform, he went on to say, and knows more about the whole proposition and has given it stronger support, long before he was a candidate for public office, than either of his chief opponents, Herrin declared.

"Do you think that Governor Richardson, who lives in Berkeley, or Lieutenant Governor Young, who also lives in Berkeley, would give this project more sincere thought and support than Rex Goodcell, who was born and raised in the very district through which the Colorado river water will enter California?" he asked.

Can't Ignore Chandler
Harry Chandler, of the Los Angeles Times, was largely responsible for the election of Richardson four years ago and unless the governor is ungrateful he cannot totally ignore the wishes of Harry Chandler on the Boulder canyon dam bill, was his assertion, and he added that few would believe that Harry Chandler was in favor of the Swing-Johnson bill.

Herrin said that the Young Men's Republican league, of Los Angeles, had endorsed Rex Goodcell for the Republican nomination and that the former collector of internal revenue was the logical candidate for the young men of Orange county to support as against either Richardson or Young.

Herrin insisted that the candidates of Richardson and Young are but another chapter in the long political fight waged in California between the forces of Hiram Johnson and the San Francisco political bosses, and Harry Chandler and his associates of Los Angeles.

"What the people of California are most interested in is a united Republican party, without the domination of any political group," he claimed. Goodcell will unite the party and will not take orders from Senator Johnson or Harry Chandler, in his opinion.

"Goodcell will not make the office of governor of California a means of venting his political hatreds, but will represent all the people without regard for sectionalism," he remarked.

Goodcell will come down from the Tehachapi with a good majority and his lead will be further increased by the vote of the southern counties, Herrin predicted, in speaking of election day.

Goodcell Next Governor
"And he will be the next governor and every citizen of California will know his position and that his chief ambition is to get the Boulder dam bill through the national congress without any nonsense," he continued.

He concluded by stating that neither Richardson nor Young could come before the voters of California with hands unsullied by bossism and that the primary election of August 31 would bear him out, and that the people of California would assert their political independence of Hiram Johnson and Harry Chandler and stand united in the Republican party for a more prosperous state.

Richardson, who lives in Berkeley, or Lieutenant Governor Young, who also lives in Berkeley, would give this project more sincere thought and support than Rex Goodcell, who was born and raised in the very district through which the Colorado river water will enter California?" he asked.

—with the most efficient power plant ever built for any American motor car

THROUGHOUT its entire range, the motor in this Willys-Knight Six "Seventy" develops greater horse power per cubic inch of piston displacement, than any other stock American automobile ever built.

The construction of the Knight sleeve valve motor adapts itself to the principles of high speed engine design in a manner that cannot be equaled.

The result is a smoothness, a power, a flexibility that have set an entirely new standard of performance among all cars in the price and size class of this product.

At well over 60 miles an hour—loafing along at 25-30 miles—crawling in traffic at a walking speed—the motor performance is always silent, ready for "more gas" and so smooth you scarcely believe the engine is running.

In quick acceleration on steep grades, and continued ability at high speed for long runs, there is nothing in its class that can equal it.

In safety of control, the four wheel brakes which follow the type of design used by 93% of Europe's finest cars give an operating assurance under all driving conditions that adds immeasurably to the enjoyment of driving.

For convenience in night driving, the dimmer switch and the horn button are located directly under the steering wheel, and may be reached without moving your hands from the wheel. This is but one of the features that are entirely individual with the Willys-Knight.

WEST COAST WALKER

Big time acts are closing at the West Coast Walker theater, tonight. Three Harmony Maids, "The Personality Pets," stopped the show last night with their wonderful harmonizing and were a decided hit with the theater-goers of Santa Ana.

Bobby Thompson Revue "Minutes of Music and Dance" present a very clever novelty act. Mr. Thompson has traveled all over the world studying music and the selections he renders are pleasing to the most critical of patrons.

Warren Brothers "Kings of Melody" will entertain you with their comedy singing and their antics. They are blessed with good voices and are artists in every way.

Yarman and Landis "The Fast Stepping Man and Maid" are indeed fast steppers and will make you keep time with your feet as they are among the fastest dancers ever to appear in this city.

Dave Monahan, "The Syncopating Xylophonist," plays the tunes you like to hear on a xylophone and he never fails to bring several encores at each performance.

No more delightful and irresistible comedy has been released this season than "The Boob," directed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by William A. Wellman from the stage success, "Don Quixote, Jr." Here is a farcical and whimsical extravaganza celebrating the spirit of youth and filled with imitable fun and fantasy. Emulating the lordly knights of the days of chivalry, its hero rides away on being repulsed in love to prove to the lady of his dreams that he is deserving of her regard; and his adventures form one of the most enjoyable comedies ever screened. This film will prove popular to everyone. It is filled to the brim with youth and love and thrills and romance.

Sunday

Ted Doner is back in the Fanchon and Marco IDEA with his agile limbs and a pleasing voice, in one of the greatest novelty acts ever produced. The setting depicts the Beach Club with an orchestra on porch beneath colored awnings and palm trees, with the beach to one side.

A feature of the "Beach Club Idea" is the "Evolution of the Bathing Girl" from 1896 to 1926—modeling the old fashioned bathing suits up to the ultra modern! The International News Reel Service photographed this group for their news reels. Considerable research was given in all magazines for the last twenty-five years to duplicate the exact type bathing suit of that period. The parade is a riot!

Now for this clever young comedian, Ted Doner. He is in a new act that is a pip! Pretty Bobby Thomson sets us all afire with her capering and the girls—well boys, just bring your opera glasses, and that's that. Fanchon and Marco have a truly splendid IDEA this week.

The girl movie stars are all becoming comedians.

First it was Gloria Swanson reverting to barefaced slapstick like her picture "Stagestruck," then Norma Talmadge fell into line with "Kiki," and Marion Davies was next with "Beverly of Graustark." And now Norma Shearer takes the jump.

In fact, her Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "The Waning Sex," with Conrad Nagel, coming to the West Coast-Walker theater Sunday is an out-and-out farce. The characterization is entirely different from anything she has ever done before but the general satisfaction of her fans indicates Norma is as capably versatile as she is beautiful.

Although "The Waning Sex" is hilariously funny Norma doesn't have to resort to slapstick for laughs. She plays her role absolutely "straight," but the situations are side-splitting. "The public has expressed itself," says Norma. "It wants to be entertained. It still wants tears and romance, of course, but it wants them delivered with laughs."

The laugh-provoking efforts of Norma and Conrad Nagel are assisted in "The Waning Sex" by Sally O'Neill, Mary McAllister, George K. Arthur, William Bakewell and others.

YOST SPURGEON

Marie Prevost was seen in her new star comedy, "Up in Mabel's Room" with splendid success at the Yost Spurgeon theater yesterday. This is an Al Christie laugh special of the highest grade and Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver who are featured in the supporting cast, are delightful in their respective roles.

The plot revolves around a filmy black chemise. Upon its appearance and disappearance reputations are made and lost, and romances are fostered or wrecked. It all arose over the fact that Mabel divorced Garry, her husband, then wanted him back. So she takes the chemise which Garry had given her, on which is embroidered "Mabel from Garry" and threatens to expose Garry at any minute—after Garry has kept his marriage and divorce secret, and later become engaged to another girl out of spite! When Mabel, Garry, the chemise and the remainder of the characters all are invited to the same house party, a screamingly funny mix-up results. The comedy is excellent and there is a laugh in every scene.

Sunday

Motion pictures have only one country boy—Charles Ray. When this popular favorite saw fit to drop his rural character and appear as the sophisticated and disdainful John Alden in "The Courtship of Miles Standish," the country mourned the loss of the greatest creator of homespun parts that the screen has ever had. But Charles Ray has returned to the fold. He is back in his original role.

In "Sweet Adeline," his second picture for Chadwick Pictures Corporation which comes to the Yost Spurgeon theater on Sunday, Charles has again donned the straw hat and boots of the small-town youth, too shy for the village understanding, yet harboring in his soul the knowledge that he is fit for great things, if he can but get the chance to prove himself.

The star brings to the role of Ben Wilson, the keen insight into the characterization of the small-town boy, who is too fine to conform to the crude ways of the folk around him, a sympathy which makes all of Charles Ray's interpretations an achievement. Ben Wilson's only claim to fame was the fact that he was a tenor in the village quartette, but that didn't help pay the mortgage or solve any of the practical family problems of the farm. But the dreamer gets his chance, even if it only started as a joke, and he makes good—as the dreamer always makes good, to the bewilderment of the practical ones.

In "Sweet Adeline," Mr. Ray is supported by a strong cast, headed by Gertrude Olmstead as "Adeline," Jack Clifford is cast as the domineering older brother. Others who have prominent roles are Gertrude Short, Frank Austin, Sibly Johnston, Theodore Lorch and J. P. Lockney.

"Thunder" and his mate, who play important parts in "The Phantom of the Forest," which closes tonight at the Yost Broadway theater.

YOST BROADWAY

A spectacular forest fire, "Thunder" the Marvel Dog, and scenic background of marvelous beauty are a few of the high spots of the latest Gotham production "The Phantom of the Forest," which is the present headliner at the Yost Broadway theater.

In this picture Thunder, more so than ever, demonstrating his right to his title "The Marvel Dog" as this wonderful animal displays a degree of animal intelligence that is nothing short of phenomenal. The story of "The Phantom of the Forest" is a thrilling melodrama based upon a mysterious dog which, like Robin Hood, roams the forests like a ghost. This dog is befriended by a girl and in return he saves the girl's life and fortune and incidentally starts a romance both for her and himself.

Betty Francisco is the girl and Eddie Phillips is the handsome hero. Others in the cast include James Mason, Irene Hunt and Frank Foster Davis. Henry McCarty directed the production which was made from a story by Frank Foster Davis, owner of "Thunder."

Sunday

First National's big steel special, "Men of Steel," which has just been released after having been in production since last November 2, is one of the biggest pictures yet filmed by this organization. For not only is the story an unusual one and the settings magnificent, but Sills has done the best work of his screen career, according to those in the know. It will show at the Yost Broadway theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Sills wrote the story from which this picture has been filmed from a suggestion received in R. G. Kirk's short story, "United States Flavor." No one knows better than Sills what Sills can do, and in the writing of the story he worked knowing the person who was to play each part—knowing their ability and personality. This made for a great vehicle at the start. The United States Steel Corporation has co-operated from the beginning with First National in the making of the picture.

The great Ensley Mills of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company were turned over to the film company for the filming of the steel mill scenes. The open red iron ore mines of the same company were also placed at the disposal of First National, and scenes so big, so powerful and smashing as to take one's breath away are the result.

Sills is pleased with the picture. "I feel that we have a great picture," is about all he will say. But the way he says it tells the story. Director George Archambaud is highly enthused. He has put heart and soul in it for months. Earl Hudson, under whose management it was filmed, is among the most enthusiastic.

In the supporting cast are Doris Kenyon, Mae Allison, George Fawcett, Frank Currier, Victor McLaglen and John Kolb.

UNITED STATES AIR PROGRAM PROVES PUZZLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Speculation as to what policy the administration will adopt for the financing of the 5-year air power expansion program authorized by congress has given a little zest to the hot weather meditations of army and navy folk in Washington. They may get some light when the limiting figures for the next appropriation bills are handed around August 15 by the budget bureau, but they will not share it with the public because of the rigid secrecy requirement of the government on budget matters.

On the face of the authorizing acts for the army and navy and preliminary estimates of cost which figured in committee hearings, the general aspects of the financing problem are plain. It is clear a supplemental air budget of 50 million dollars and upwards is in order for the first full year of the program. What that "upwards" might involve is not so clear.

That congress intended this huge sum to be appropriated at the last session and to be superimposed on the current appropriations for the two services, amounting roughly to $85 million dollars, seems quite clear. The language of the army air increase act makes it even mandatory, in reporting it to the military committee, said the air expansion was to be accomplished "without taking this increase away from the other arms," and the same thing is at least implied in the navy program.

Authorized strength and actual strength, however, are two quite different things from a budget point of view.

No Heed to Warnings

The army air bill went through congress despite warnings by Maj.
Gen. Fox Conner, deputy chief of staff, and departmental spokesmen on financial aspects of the subject, before the senate military committee that it would fail unless congress and the administration were prepared to raise army military appropriations from 265 million dollars, the current army bill total, to 220, annually.

"If we attempt to carry out the provisions in this air expansion bill at the expense of the other branches, with no more than 260 million dollars a year, we must lose from 20,000 to 25,000 men from other branches," General Conner told the senators. "Such a solution ruins the army beyond hope of recovery."

The army's increased air budget, under the law, must go to congress this first year as a supplemental estimate. There is no such restriction as to the navy air increase. It will be lumped with other requirements, and, if a full year is to be provided for, probably will bring navy estimates somewhere between 230 million dollars and 340 million dollars for the next fiscal year as compared with 319 million dollars in the current act.

Navy figures brought out in the hearings dealt only with the cost of new planes and airships, ignoring the question of additional personnel and many indirect items. Rear Admiral Moffatt, navy air chief, placed the equipment cost for the five years at $5 million dollars.

Plane Lasts Four Years

Major General Patrick, army air chief, told the congressional committee the life of a modern plane was about four years. That means air increase estimates now under consideration must provide against an annual "washout" of equipment.

The combined program calls for 2800 active planes at the end of five years, 1000 for the navy and 1800 for the army and national guard.
It also authorized two monster dirigibles for the navy. But when congress closed up shop and went home to fix up political fences, it left behind an appropriation of only $307,500 to start the work.

Of that, $300,000 is for an all-metal experimental dirigible for which the navy did not ask, and the remainder is to pay the first year's salary of the new assistant secretary for air in the navy department.

HUNTINGTON BEACH EDITOR URGES VOTERS CAST THEIR BALLOTS FOR C. C. YOUNG

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 14.—Taking the Swing-Johnson bill as the outstanding and important issue in the campaign, the Huntington Beach News today is out strongly in favor of the nomination of Clement
C. Young for governor of California.

The stand taken by James J. Conrad, one of the best known newspapermen of Southern California, is looked upon here as a bombshell in the camp of Governor Richardson.

Four years ago, Conrad was one of Richardson's staunchest supporters. During the present campaign, the News has been listed by J. F. Craemer, who is directing Richardson's newspaper support as among the Orange county newspapers supporting Richardson.

On Colorado Development

It has been known for some time that Conrad was not satisfied with Governor Richardson's attitude toward the Colorado river development. Conrad has given that issue careful attention. While personally friendly with Governor Richardson, he has found, however, that in this campaign he cannot support Richardson.

Conrad points out that, two years ago, Governor Richardson endeavored to defeat Congressman Phil D. Swing, who ran on a Colorado river development platform.

Editorial From News

Editorially, the Huntington Beach news today had the following:
"We have previously stated that the most important and far-reaching question before the people of Southern California is the one controlling and utilizing the flood waters which sweep down the Colorado river annually, and have advised voters to vote only for candidates for gubernatorial and legislative honors who have declared themselves unequivocally for the Swing-Johnson bill, the one which has been endorsed by the Coolidge administration.

"For this reason, we advise the voters to cast their ballots for Clement C. Young, who for the past eight years has served as Lieutenant governor of California, and 10 years previous served in a legislative capacity in Sacramento, who is a loyal and true friend of the Swing-Johnson bill; and if elected governor can do much toward an early passage of this important measure, which the people of Southern California desire and need.

"The contest for the Republican nomination for governor is between Governor Richardson and Lieutenant Governor Young; there has never been any doubt on this phase of the primary campaign and those who desire an early solution of the Colorado river question should support Mr. Young vigorously.

"The Colorado river matter is the one big issue in this campaign and voters should vote for men who are favorable to the Swing-Johnson bill, regardless of friendship for one who may be opposed to it.

Require Surplus Water

"The citizens of Southern California will require the surplus water from the Colorado river, probably before it can be brought here, in the event that the bill is enacted into law at the next session of congress, consequently it is highly important that none but those who will work unceasingly for this project be nominated for office.

"Governor Richardson has not indorsed the Swing-Johnson bill, therefore we assume that he is not in favor of its passage. He did, however, ask the members of the National Editorial association to assist in improving the Colorado river, but he failed to request their support of the Swing-Johnson bill, now pending in congress. Governor Richardson is like some others who are in favor of making some kind of improvements on the Colorado, but by some plan other than the Swing-Johnson bill, which means further delay in the great work already outlined by the U. S. reclamation service, and incorporated in the Swing-Johnson bill.

"Two years ago, the opponents of the Swing-Johnson bill made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to defeat Congressman Swing for the Republican nomination, and Governor Richardson indorsed the man who made the contest, and his lieutenants in this district directed the fight against Swing, therefore it is quite evident that Governor Richardson is not now, and never has been a friend of the Swing-Johnson bill, and is not entitled to the support of those who favor this legislative measure. Vote for the Swing-Johnson bill and not for the man, August 31."

The urgent need of greater clinical facilities, combined with educational opportunities, in the care and treatment of crippled children, was stressed by President Riley. Quoting from data collected by the California Rotary clubs, bearing upon the situation, he said that much of the illness and physical defect among the population does not at present receive proper attention, that public interest requires better service in this line, and that more cases, supported by public funds, are the most effective means.

From the point of view of cost to the community, Riley explained, factors are available which indicate that uncareful for physical defect is one of the prime causes of shortened life, diminished economic efficiency, and increased dependency, and that the cost of adequate medical care for many defects, involving the purchase of expensive braces, is beyond the means of a large number of families.

FINANCES FOR CHILD RELIEF ARE DISCUSSED

Ways and means for financing operations of the Crippled Children's Relief association, of Orange county, for the balance of the California year, were discussed at the regular monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon, at the Anaheim Elks club.

It was brought out in reports covering the activities of the association that there is a constant demand for service, new applications being continuously received from destitute families. In addition to furnishing braces and artificial limbs, amounting in value to $149.50 for the month of July, the association was called upon to furnish free transportation to patients undergoing treatment at hospital clinics. In some cases, it also was necessary to provide milk for undernourished children.

organization, presided. Reports

SAFETY RULE FOR CROSSING STREETS TOLD BY S. H. FINLEY

Supervisor Makes Method Public Through Message To Register Auto Scribe

FACE TRAFFIC, IS ADVICE OF WRITER

Passes on Opinion As How To Avoid Confusion in Daylight Saving Plans

Col. S. H. Finley, supervisor from the first district and a man active in city and county affairs, is to the fore this week, suggesting a method to be followed by pedestrians in crossing streets and offering comments on the much discussed daylight saving plan. Finley's letter to the Register's auto editor is self-explanatory and is submitted as follows:

"Auto Editor, Register—A simple rule for pedestrians safely crossing to diagonal corners of street intersections has occurred to me as follows:

"When approaching any street intersection and desiring to reach the diagonal corner, one should proceed to the left. If time is followed the pedestrian will at all times be facing the auto traffic. Everyone else may be wise to this, but I do not remember of ever seeing the suggestion published.

Since you are supposed to know all about everything that in the remotest sort of a way has a bearing on autos or auto traffic, there is another tip which I wish to pass on to you.

"Recently there has been considerable agitation for the introduction of the daylight saving plan on the coast.

"In order to avoid the confusion incident to its adoption in isolated cities and communities, I would suggest that the change be made universal on the Pacific coast by extending the mountain time area to the shore of the Pacific, including coastwise ocean traffic.

"This would make a prominent natural boundary line between mountain and Pacific time and eliminate any change of time west of the rocky mountains until one went beyond the territorial waters of the United States for some foreign country, and a change made when on the open ocean would create no confusion.

"Yours truly,

"S. H. FINLEY."

SURVIVORS OR DESCENDANTS OF DONNER PARTY SOUGHT TO ATTEND BRIDGE DEDICATION

Are there any survivors of the Donner party or their descendants living in Orange county?

If there are, the Native Sons and Daughters, the California highway commission, the bureau of public roads, and the U. S. forest service extend to them an invitation to be present at the dedication of the Donner summit bridge, near Donner lake, Nevada county.

This spectacular structure, now nearing completion, is located on the old Overland trail, just below the crest of Donner summit, where heavy Sierra snows of the winter of 1846-47 effectively blocked the path of the Donner party and brought starvation and death to more than 40 of its members.

The ceremonies will take place at the bridge during the latter part of August under the joint auspices of the Native Sons, the Native Daughters and the three state and federal agencies which have co-operated in its construction.

To Unveil Plaque

The dedication ceremonies will include unveiling of a memorial plaque to be placed on a pedestal in the observation platform constructed as part of the bridge. From this vantage resting place may be viewed the formidable granite cliffs surrounding Donner lake, up which three successive roads have been built, the last being the new state highway blasted from solid rock to provide an easy grade for the three mile climb from Donner lake to the summit.

A second unit extending from the summit westward to Soda Springs and eliminating two dangerous grade crossings of the Southern Pacific railroad, will be opened to traffic on the day the bridge is dedicated.

The new highway from Donner lake to the summit, eliminating 20 per cent grades of the old road, was built by the California highway commission, while the section from the summit to Soda Springs is a forest highway project and is a contribution of the U. S. forest service to the highway system of California.

The bureau of public roads has had charge of construction. The same holds true for the bridge, which also was financed by forest funds. Plans, however, were furnished by the bridge department of the California highway commission. Work on the bridge and the seven miles of new highway has been under way for more than three years.

Near Historic Spot

Donner summit bridge spans a chasm, not a stream, its construction being necessary to provide a seven per cent grade up the mountain. Its location is not far from point where members of the Donner party were forced to turn back, reach Sacramento valley, and for this reason it was deemed fitting by the highway commission that the bridge, which is destined to be a popular stopping place, be dedicated to their memory and that of other pioneers who followed in their footsteps.

To future motorists who pause to enjoy the vista of the lake and mountains which unfolds from the summit, the bronze tablet will recall the hardships of those who nearly three generations ago, struggled through a land without roads.

H. E. Welch, of Lodi, grand president.

Mexican Police Urged To Stop Shooting

Mexico City newspapers complain that the city's traffic police are too loose on the trigger. They urge the police to quit shooting at violators of traffic laws.

The objection is that the public is doubly imperiled. The pedestrian is not only ant to be run down by automobiles, but he also hazards being killed by a police bullet intended for the motorist.

The newspapers say several persons have been killed in recent weeks by shots directed by police at traffic law violators.

RADIO IS SEEN AS STANDARD CAR EQUIPMENT

A radio is to be the next addition to the standard equipment of automobiles, according to Norman Klentz, of Williams and Klentz Radio shop, 409 West Fifth street.

Klentz bases his arguments on the personal trial which he has made with a new radio during the last few weeks. The radio is one of the smallest ever seen in Santa Ana, and, according to Klentz, is capable of bringing in stations as far distant as Seattle, Wn.

A space 10 inches long, three inches wide and five and one-half inches high is taken up by the new set. An audio and B batteries can be placed under the seat or in the back of the car and take a space 14 inches long, seven inches wide and five inches high. Thirty feet of antenna is used with the set and in a coupe or sedan the wire can be underneath the covering or on the inside of the top and is invisible.

The smallness of the set, coupled with its effectiveness in bringing in distant stations, clearly is expected to make it a popular one with vacationists and campers.

Klentz declares that the set can be built into an automobile and believes that a similar set will be adopted by automobile manufacturers in the near future.

EL CENTRO AND YUMA ROAD IS OPEN TO CARS

Seven Miles of New Pavement Across Sand Hills Now Ready for Traffic

Opening to traffic of seven miles of new pavement, 20 feet in width, across the famous sand hills between El Centro and Yuma, in eastern Imperial county, was announced today by State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton. The new highway eliminates an eight-foot plant road on one of California's important interstate connections, Morton explained.

The old plank road across the Imperial sand dunes was the first passable highway for automobiles between the Imperial valley and Yuma, located entirely within American territory. It was built in 1916, largely by public subscription, and later was taken over and maintained by the state highway commission.

A heavy increase of traffic during recent years has overwhelmed the narrow road and in some places all but demolished it. The seven miles of new asphalt concrete pavement is the result of many months of study of conditions on the desert, where many engineers believed building of a pavement was impossible.

The project has been approved for federal aid and has been described by road builders as one of the most daring and spectacular highway paving projects in America.

Division eight of the California highway commission, with headquarters in San Bernardino, has had immediate charge of the work. Oiling of shoulders and slopes of fills will be under way for several weeks, but the plank road has been finally abandoned.

Autos Must Stop As Crossings In San Bernardino

Orange county motorists will do well to read and observe all road signs when traveling in San Bernardino county, according to reports from that county.

A new ordinance has been passed in San Bernardino county compelling all drivers of motor vehicles to come to a full stop before crossing all main lines of steam or electric railroads. The ordinance goes into effect today.

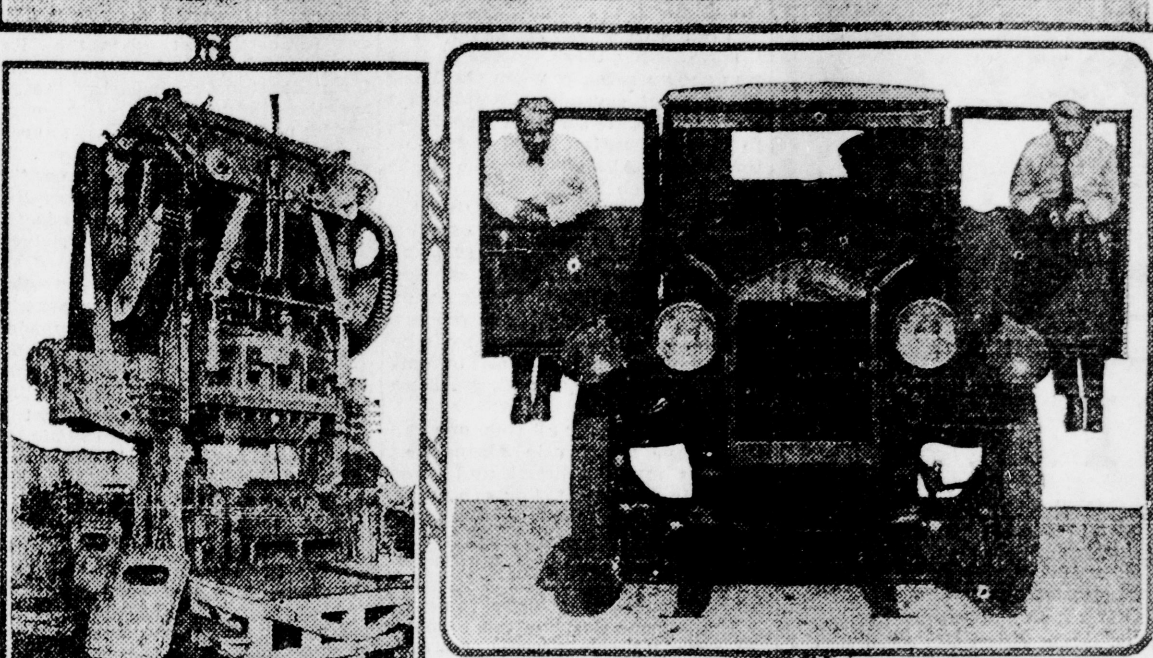

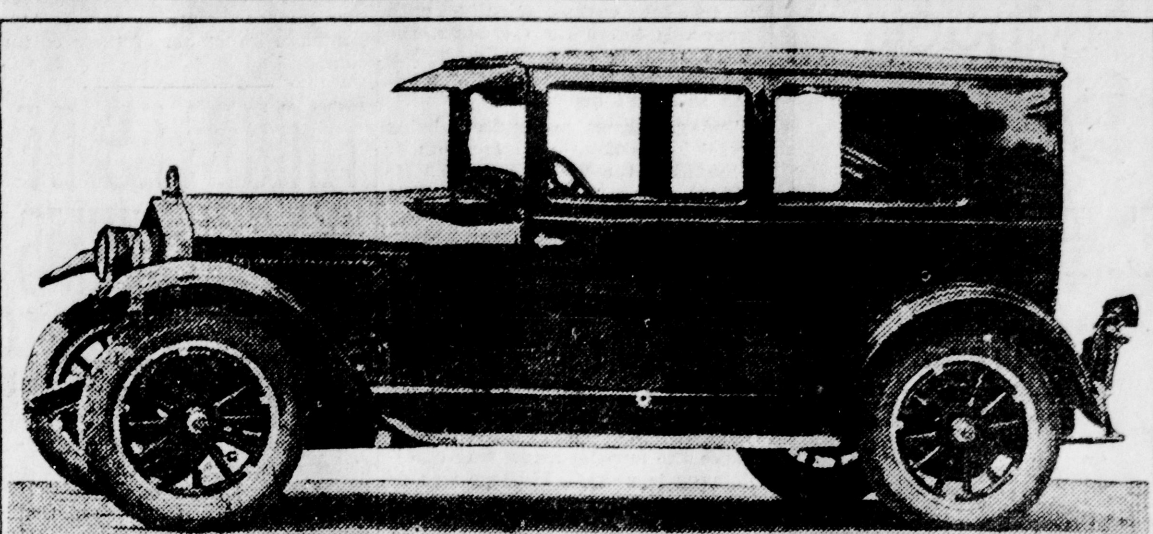

According to reports from the county, signs have been posted at all railroad crossings where the ordinance is to be observed, and motor officers have been given strict orders to enforce the ordinance.

Violation of the ordinance is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $300. Section four of the ordinance states that "this ordinance is required for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety."

Fuselage of Tiny Monoplane Weighs Only 22 Pounds

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—A little sport plane, powered by a two-cylinder motor and with a wing spread of 26 feet, which speeds 109 miles an hour, has been manufactured here, it was announced, primarily for light plane races to be held in Philadelphia next month. It is a monoplane, the wing built in one piece of cantilever construction, with small landing gear made rugged to withstand hard shocks. The Heath Airplane company, the manufacturer, is authority for the statement that the structure of the fuselage weighs only 22 pounds.

NEW ESSEX ALL-STEEL COACH IS BUILT IN WORLD'S LARGEST SINGLE BODY PLANT

Above—The new Essex all-steel coach, described as "strong as a steel building." At the left, lower, is shown a 400 ton press which stamps out entire doors with a single operation. At the right two men are proving sturdiness of car by riding on outstretched doors.

THOUSAND AUTO CARS BOUGHT BY U. P. ROAD

Shipment of automobiles over railroad lines will be greatly facilitated by the addition of 1000 all steel special built automobile cars, according to announcement received today by C. S. Browne, general agent here for the Union Pacific railroad.

According to Browne, automobile manufacturers and dealers are greatly impressed with the new cars, which are equipped with loading and unloading cranes and have a number of special features designed to make the shipment of cars absolutely safe.

The cars are 50 feet long, eight feet, eight inches wide and are 10 feet high, inside measurements, and will carry 100,000 pounds. The doors of the cars are of steel construction and open to a width of 12 feet. The steel cars are floored with a heavy fir lumber and have three sets of fir lumber belt rails bolted about the inside.

The crane is attached to the car and operates on a steel runway along the side of the car. The crane is capable of lifting 3000 pounds and, when not in use, is securely fastened at one end of the car. There also are special eye bolts on the inside of the car to assist in unloading and loading operations.

According to Browne, complimentary reports have been received from the Dodge, Packard, Lincoln and Cadillac motor car companies. Automobile dealers here today expressed their approval of the 12-foot doors, which, they declare, will eliminate much danger of damage in unloading operations.

Giant Machines Doing Work Of Skilled Craftsmen And Artists

Any story of the new Essex all-steel coach is fundamentally the story of the $10,000,000 body factory, which produces the car. What the Hudson Motor Car company has done in the manufacture of Essex bodies is to make craftsmen of machines; this is literally the fact. Giant machines do in a fraction of a minute work that the most highly skilled artisan, craftsman or artist could never hope to equal, from the standpoint of beauty and accuracy. The plant devoted to making the bodies expresses the industry's top mark in design and execution.

"Hand work" has long been a symbol of excellence of manufacture. Painstaking labor, directed by trained craft, has resulted in closest fit and smoothest finish. But "machine work" supplants it when the machine is designed and executed so as to perform quickly and surely operations that far excel the best of the hand craft.

Aggregation of Machines

Essentially, the Essex body plant is an aggregation of pressing and stamping machines. Upon them are formed the component parts of the body, which are so accurately made that they fit without question. Their union into a rigid whole is accomplished with a speed and uniformity almost beyond belief. A cowl, a door, or the corner of a body is fashioned on a giant press. The whole cowl is brought into being with one apparently effortless motion of a press that is exerting a force of 400 tons every time its plunger descends. The machine and the dies may represent $100,000 worth of ability to manufacture with speed and exactness—an investment made with the certainty that the completed plant would function with the greatest precision and the highest attainable speed.

The Hudson officials say that the plant is unique in being the largest body building unit in the industry, without a single body builder employed in it. Strictly speaking, and using the word in the sense in which it is usually accepted, perhaps there are no human body builders. But the machines certainly are body-builders in every sense of the word.

Progressive Assembly System

For the first time in the history of American industry, body building has been made primarily a series of steel stamping processes; for the first time, too, the bodies are being made on a 100 per cent progressive assembly system, already employed to such advantage in the manufacture of engines and chassis.

Everything in connection with the plant and the other means of making bodies complete was laid out a year ago. On top of the $10,000,000 in the plant proper, an investment of $5,000,000 was made in bringing other departments to a capacity that would measure up to that of the new unit. The plant and the expansions were completed on schedule time and on the precise day originally determined, a schedule of the new all-steel bodies, to the number of 150, was put through.

SEALED LOVE NEST

LA GRANGE, Ky., Aug. 14.—In 1890 James Williams brought his bride to the "love nest" he had built in La Grange. After a few months she died. Williams turned the key in the door of the cottage and never went back. He died a few weeks ago and the place was sold. Everything was found just as it had been left 35 years ago.

REDUCTIONS IN NEW JORDANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Jordan fans will be keenly interested in the announcement today of a new custom style sedan and a Victoria, mounted on the Jordan line eight chassis. These new departures from the lines of the Jordan, so well known on the California highways, is to be a feature of the 1927 Jordan productions. The new models will arrive in Santa Ana at a reduction of approximately $200, it was said today.

The new sedan is of all-steel construction and the Victoria has the new all-vision front with the slender steel pillars.

Colors are optional and upholstery is done in special broadcloths with distinctive hardware and interior appointments.

Both models are priced at $3495 and with a five-passenger touring car make up a line of three body styles on the larger chassis with a wheelbase of 125 1/2 inches and a straight eight motor of 3-inch bore and 4 1/2-inch stroke.

The smaller chassis with wheelbase of 116 inches and straight motor of 2 1/2-inch stroke is continued without change for 1927.

Body styles available on the smaller chassis include the Playboy, five-passenger sedan, and four-passenger Victoria in a range of new colors.

Jordan has never followed the plan of introducing yearly models, preferring to make improvements gradually and not deprecate models already in the hands of owners.

The only radical change noted for 1927 is the adoption of the fedco number plate system, to reduce theft.

Every 1927 Jordan bears a number plate on the instrument board, which distinguishes it from all others.

The plate cannot be altered or removed without mutilating the plate or the instrument board. That makes it hard for the thieves, because if the plate has been tampered with, the car is at once very evidently stolen property and difficult to dispose of.

As Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor company, puts it, "the adoption of the fedco number plate system is just an additional service to Jordan owners. It should reduce greatly the theft of Jordan cars and should eventually work to reduce the theft insurance rates."

ORANGE COUNTY OFFICERS STOP 7255 DRIVERS IN SIX MONTHS

1649 Tickets Are Written By State Cops; Fines Total More Than $15,000

DISTRICT IS FOURTH IN MOTORISTS HALTED

Guardians of Roads Travel Over 91,000 Miles While On Alert for Violators

State traffic officers in Orange county halted 7255 motorists, warned 5606 and handed tickets to 1649 persons during the first six months of the year, according to records of the traffic department of the division of motor vehicles, made public today. Fines collected in Orange county during the six-month period amounted to $15,371. State traffic officers in Orange county traveled a total of 91,188 miles in patrolling the highways of the county during the six months.

Orange county was forth in the number of persons stopped, out of 45 counties in the state, eighth in the number of arrests made, second in the number of miles traveled by officers and third in the amount of fines collected.

The shrill blast of California state motor cops' whistles, warning violators of the motor vehicle laws to pull up to the curb, was heard and heeded by 111,125 motorists during the first six months of the year.

Majority Reprimanded

In a majority of cases, the offenders were given a reprimand, told to be careful in future and allowed to proceed. But in 37,245 cases, the officers found the offense too serious to permit the violator to escape and placed him under arrest.

Fines for the period totaled $27,454.25. Those given a reprimand amounted to $75,593.80. The total number of violators fined was 8104.

The state officers covered 1,875,140 miles in protecting the highways during this period.

22,488 Speeders Stopped

Of those stopped by the officers, 22,488 were speeding; 52,478 had glaring or otherwise illegal lights; 13,655 were breaking rules of the road, and 22,474 were violating miscellaneous sections of the law.

Of those actually placed under arrest, 12,492 were charged with speeding.

The records cover 45 California counties, in which state traffic squads are operating.

The Imperial county squad was highest on the list in number of motorists stopped, with 8533. The San Diego county squad had the highest number of arrests with 3563.

Imperial county also was highest in the amount of fines collected, taking in $16,119.50. San Diego county officers traveled more miles during the six-month period than did state officers in any other county. The San Diego officers traveled 157,741 miles.

within easy reach of thousands who have always wanted a Peerless.

a Peerless.

Its wheelbase is only 116 inches. The body, however, is long, low, roomy.
Comfortable, too, with deep cushioned seats tilted at just the right angle.

Never have you driven a car quite so easy to handle. It's instantly responsive to the slightest touch on the accelerator—obedient to the gentlest pressure on the wheel.

It's easy to turn—easy to park. Gears shift quickly and silently. And always, the hydraulic four-wheel brakes give

With 2950 pounds of road weight, this Six-80 holds the road as a lighter car simply cannot do. Balloon tires

ALSACE DESIRE FOR HOME RULE PERILS EUROPE

MULHOUSE, Alsace, Aug. 14.— Few parts of Europe, except perhaps German Switzerland, appear more idyllic, yet Alsace is not happy. It is not even convinced that it is prosperous. At least, not as prosperous as its neighbors on the other side of the Rhine.

Alsace, when the war ended, threw in its lot enthusiastically with France. It hated the Germans, the world was told. Joyfully it became a French "department," so it was said and believed.

Today, Alsace, so far from being joyful in its new-found freedom, is demanding the right to govern itself, to make its own laws and to collect its own taxes. It wants to be independent—not of France, perhaps, but at least in France. It wants home rule.

The French have a very simple explanation for so complete a reversal of sentiment. It is that German propaganda is busy, that the tools or dupes of Germany are working to distract the mind of official France from other fields where the never-ceasing war of diplomacy is waged. If there was no propaganda there would be no discontent and no desire for the political men, the French claim.

French Discipline Autonomists.
How firmly they believe it true was shown recently when the Paris government severely disciplined a number of state servants who dared to sign a manifesto asking for autonomy for Alsace within the framework of the French Republic.

French authorities assert that the Alsace Germans, who were expelled after the war or who emigrated and would like to return, are sending money in to assist in the agitation for home rule and that there are political parties in Germany who want nothing better than to embarrass France by making Alsace another Ireland.

But, allowing for all this, one can not escape noticing in Alsace that there is much political and some economic discontent. For one thing, there is the collapse of the franc compared with the stable Swiss and German currencies just across the frontiers. For another, there is the growing feeling that Alsace is neither French nor German, but a country with its own history, its own customs, something of a native culture, and even now capable of making its own laws.

"Alsace never voted to join France," it is said. "She might have done so, given the opportunity. But the fact remains that she did not and so she is free."

Right to Govern Selves.
"What she wants now, or at least what the home rulers want —and it is true that they are only a minority of the population—is the right to govern herself within the framework of the French republic. It is said that the framework does not permit the grant of autonomies such as the British empire is built on. Well, in Alsace, we say that it is all the worse for the French republic.

"We do not forget that the German republic is a union of free states and, though we would rather gain our ends within France, we can tell what may happen in the future if we find ourselves denied our desire? The German republic would not be averse from giving us the rights within the reich."

This is the real danger of the Alsace home rule movement. At present limited to perhaps only two easy to disregard, it has incalculable potentialities. Today its direction is all toward France, so far as an outsider can see. Tomorrow, the eyes of Alsacians may turn across the Rhine whence their language and most of their culture come.

TROUBLES OF CITRUS FIRMS REACH COURTS

Difficulties between the Orange County Citrus Products company, of Olive, and the Garden Grove Citrus association, over a subscription for stock of the former company, were put up to the courts today for settlement, when the Olive company filed suit for damages and for a court order declaring the respective rights of the two companies under the subscription agreement.

According to the papers on file,
the Garden Grove Citrus association signed for 30 shares of stock in the Orange County Citrus Products company, when it was formed in 1925. The Garden Grove association later protested further permits for the sale of stock and demanded return of cash and a note given for its own subscription. The case was heard before the corporation commissioner, who decided that it was one for the courts to settle.

New Management Installed.
The complaint now on file states that the state had issued a permit for the sale of stock, the proceeds of which were to be impounded in the First National bank, of Olive, until 75 shares had been sold. The Garden Grove subscription was taken and later a dispute arose over the conduct of the citrus products company's affairs. It appearing that the Garden Grove association questioned the ability of the citrus products company management. A new management was installed and, with good prospects for success, the stock dispute was dropped. At least, the citrus products company thought it was. A protest filed by the Garden Grove association against issuance of an amended permit to the citrus products company was withdrawn and subsequently a suspension of stock sales imposed by the state, was lifted.

The citrus products company proceeded again to sell stock, and eventually sold 85 shares. When the company applied to the state for a permit to issue stock to the subscribers, the Garden Grove association again protested and, that time, demanded return of its subscription money.

Time Limit Waiver Claimed.
At a hearing before the corporation commissioner, the Olive company claimed an understanding that the Garden Grove association had approved of the change in management, and had waived the question of a time limit to stock sales, by withdrawing opposition to an amended permit, which granted such time extension. The Garden Grove association denied that it had waived anything.

In view of the conflict of testimony, the corporation department declined to settle the dispute and advised that it was a question for the courts. Accordingly the legal proceedings were instituted.

Irl D. Brett, Los Angeles, T. L.
McFadden and George F. Holden, of Anaheim, are attorneys for the citrus products company. Head, Rutan and Scovel, of Santa Ana, represented the Garden Grove association.

Will of Wyoming Oil Man Fought By His Children

DOUGLAS, Wyo., Aug. 13.—Petition of administrator for admission to probate of the will of the late John E. Higgins, Glenrock pioneer who bequeathed an estate valued at more than one-half a million dollars to the state of Wyoming, met with notice of contest when hearing was opened in the district court here. John O. Higgins, Vivian Higgins and Lucille Higgins, sons and daughters of James Higgins, deceased brother of the late John E.
Higgins, asked that the will be wholly rejected and not admitted to probate and that the estate be administered as intestate, reverting to the plaintiffs as next of kin.

Nineteen causes are set forth in the notice of contest, chief of which are the contentions that at the time of signing the will, "the deceased was impaired and enfeebled in mind and body," and was incapacitated from executing any will; that Josephine Higgins, wife of John E.
Higgins, who died only a short time before he executed the will, "persistently up to the time of her death, threatened and importuned him to so provide that none of his property should ever go to these plaintiffs," and that the state of Wyoming is legally incapable of receiving the property, accept the trust be created or administer the estate.

Descendants of Donner Party Being Sought

dent of the Native Sons of the Golden West, has appointed the following committee to formulate and have charge of the dedication program:
Harvey M. Toy, San Francisco, chairman of the California Highway commission; George G. Radcliff, Sacramento, chairman of the state board of control; John T. Skelton, Sacramento, grand trustee of the Native Sons; J. J. Monteverde,

Sacramento, grand officer of the Native Sons, and W. B. Gelatt, of Donner lake. The program will be ready for announcement in the near future.

Reunion of Pioneers.
Records of the state library indicate that in 1918 eight survivors of the Donner party still were alive.
If any are still living and can be located, a special effort will be made to have them participate in the dedication of the bridge, if it is possible for them to make the trip.

Descendants of survivors and other pioneers are urged to make the event a reunion of those who, in the early days, made the Overland trail one of the famous emigrant routes into California.

DEALER TELLS ABOUT PROPER CARE OF TIRES

"He came into my place more in sorrow than in anger and said: 'Here, my two front tires have gone 23,000 miles and are good for plenty more service. The rears went out at 10,000. I bought another two for the rear and they're gone, and now I've got to buy still some more rears to keep up with the mileage that the fronts are giving me. Why don't you fellows build your tires alike, so one can expect something like even mileage?'"

Thus says Roy J. Lyon, distributor of General tires in Santa Ana. "Where's your spare?" I asked him, after looking at the car over.

"Don't need any. Carrying a spare on city streets, with a tire dealer or changer on every corner that hasn't been grabbed by the gas stations, is all bunk."

"When did you change your tires around from wheel to wheel, fronts to rears, rears to fronts, both from one side of the car to the other? And how long have these cars been gathering dirt and oil and water in the sidewalls and tread?"

"H-m-m-p. Why change 'em around? Those front tires, with 23,000 miles, haven't been touched since I had 'em. It's the back tires I'm hollering about. They hadn't oughta go out at 10,000 and 12,000 miles."

"Let's suppose your fronts will run 25,000 miles, as you say," I said. "The tires cost you $38 apiece. That's $76 for the fronts, not bad for that mileage, eh? But wait, to get the rears to do the same thing you have to buy six tires at $38 or spend $304 for eight tires."

"As you know, we have plenty of cases where motorists get 20,000 miles—sometimes 40,000 miles, by buying five tires, one for each wheel and a spare and then using them properly. That would cost, at $38, the sum of $190. The difference, or saving, by giving tires half a chance, in actual dollars and cents, is $114. "Jim was interested now. When you talk actual dollars and say how many, most anyone sits up and takes notice."

"Use your spare. Change tires around. Rears do harder work than fronts any time. Then there is the slip-slide wear of braking, rubbing curbs, etc. All front tires have to do is to carry a rolling load. The tread is never scraped."

SAN DIEGO—A total of $3,500,000 will be required to operate the schools of San Diego county the coming term, according to estimates prepared by Miss Ada York, county school superintendent. This amount is a slight advance over the totals of the past term. The state contributes at least $751,430 of the above amount and the county a like sum, and district funds supply the remainder. The amount of state aid is dependent on the average attendance and last year's average in the elementary schools was 19,462. Miss York's records show. State and county each pay $30 for each pupil. Average attendance at the high schools of the county was 5917. The state pays $30 each and the county must double that sum. Average attendance figures are determined August 31 and the school rate fixed Sept. 7.

OXNARD—Two thousand acres of carrots will be planted in Ventura county this fall. Carrots mature in about five months and Oxnard carrots are in great demand on eastern markets, where they usually bring a dollar higher prices than those raised in other sections. Two thousand acres of tomatoes also are being raised here and will be marketed in the east starting the first part of September. There also will be a heavy acreage to beets, lettuce, turnips, cauliflower, parsley, bell peppers, spinach and cabbage. The lima bean crop this year is estimated as 40 per cent larger than last year by Manager Ralph Churchill of the California Lima Bean Growers' association. He estimates the 1926 crop as 1,100,000 bags, with continued favorable growing weather. Eastern buyers are placing many orders on new crop.

LONG BEACH—A check for $95,049.39 has been received by the city from the Southern California Edison company, representing the municipal gas company purchased during the month of July. Assistant City Manager G. L. Buck believes additional current being generated by the Edison company will boost its gas bill over the $100,000 figure during the next two months. He said the company is now purchasing about $5,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day. Assistant Manager Buck reported that municipal oil income during the month of July amounted to $35,000, which represents a slight decline compared with income received since the first of the current year.

SANTA MONICA—Plans for Santa Monica's annual California dahlias show to be held in the municipal auditorium at Ocean Park during the first four days of September, are maturing rapidly, according to M. C. McKenney, secretary of the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, of which Herman Michel, just elected mayor of the city on a recall ballot, is president.

LONG BEACH—The driving of piles to make a foundation for the municipal gas-manufacturing plant ordered by the council has been started and will probably be completed next Wednesday, W. A. White, gas department superintendent, announces. Completion of the pile driving will be followed immediately by the beginning of concrete work, which will be done by the department, Mr. White said. Plans and specifications for the building have been finished and are now in the city manager's office. Bids on the building contract probably will be received about September 1.

Proper Treatment Of Battery Told

Corrosion on battery terminals can be cleaned off with a solution of ordinary baking soda and water, according to M. S. Robinson, dealer here for Prest-O-Lite batteries, with headquarters at 111 Spurgeon street.

About two teaspoonsful of baking soda in a cup of water, applied to battery terminals with a stiff bristle brush, will clean the terminals nicely.

An ammonia solution of about half water and half ammonia also is good, according to Robinson. The battery dealer advises thoroughly covering all battery terminals with a light coat of grease after cleaning, to prevent corrosion.

MANY CURIOUS AS TO DETAILS OF NEW MODEL

There is an increasing curiosity among persons interested in motor cars—which about embraces the whole public—in the details of the new Chrysler four cylinder car which is shortly to be announced, according to R. W. Towne, Chrysler dealer here.

While Chrysler has acknowledged that such a car is on the way, there has been no intimation from official sources as to what will be its chief characteristics.

Word comes from Detroit however, that the formal announcement will stress the fact that the new Chrysler is a "full sized car." This is taken to mean that exceptionally large passenger room in a car of its class will be a leading feature.

It is understood that the car will sell in the lower price range and will actively compete for a full share of this large market.

EAGLES MAY BUILD MEMORIAL TO VETS

SEATTLE, Aug. 14.—A million-dollar memorial to World war veterans will likely be constructed in Kansas City, Chicago or Milwaukee by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Charles Guenther of Pittsburgh, grand president of the order, announced in opening its convention here.

"This building will be an outgrowth of a fund we collected after the war for the benefit of widows of Eagle soldiers who were killed in action or who died from wounds," Guenther said. "We collected 10 cents from every member of the order and used that to pay the claims of widows. Now all these claims have been paid and we find ourselves with a large fund on hand. "It will be proposed at this convention that this sum be used as a nucleus for the construction of the memorial building and that means be found to finance the remainder of the cost. Chicago, Milwaukee or Kansas City will probably get the memorial because of their central location."

Hotel Returns Property Taken From Hostelties

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Two hundred and three packages containing silver or gold tableware, linens or bed linen were mailed on Tuesday by the Palace hotel of this city to as many hotels or restaurants in all parts of the world. They represented $1500 worth of monogrammed articles left behind by guests of the Palace last year. Among the articles returned were a gold spoon from the Shepherd hotel, Cairo, Egypt; a cream pitcher from the Astor house, Shanghai, and a knife and fork from the Ritz-Carlton, London.

Science Changes $100 Diamond to Gem Worth $700

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—All you need to turn a $100 yellow diamond into what appears to be a $700 blue diamond, is some $8000 worth of radium, according to Dr. C. Everett Field, director of the Radium Institute of New York, who made public the results of several years experiments. As to the illegal uses, Dr. Field said: "somebody could buy a yellow stone and turn it into white and sell it that way. The trick would not be discovered for years, perhaps never."

NEW FEATURES ADD GRACE TO CADILLAC

Included in the Cadillac line of 50 body types and styles for this fall is this impressive seven-passenger sedan. It exemplifies the refinements made in the 1927 series of Cadillac standard closed bodies to keep pace with the improvements in the custom line. New fenders, headlamps and radiator casing add grace and strength to the appearance, and window recesses in colors give an added dash of liveliness to the upper panels. Front pillars have been narrowed one inch, giving greater visibility and the pleated and tufted style of upholstery trimming used in custom cars during the 1926 season has been adopted for the new standard cars.

Establishment of a more widely diversified line of body types and styles, color combinations and upholstery than has ever before been shown by one manufacturer in the history of the industry marks the entrance of the Cadillac Motor Car company into its silver anniversary year.

The company's marked attention to individuality and exclusiveness in body design, which has been developing during the last 12 months, has been accompanied by an upward revision of its production schedule, four times during the same period, and by an increase in sales of $11.2 per cent.

dillac car, Aug. 1, 1925, a few months after the accession of Lawrence P. Fisher to the company's presidency. The influence of the Fisher body organization, of which he was formerly an officer, has been evidenced since that time in the development of a range of body styles commensurate with the quality of the chassis.

Beginning with an offering of six standard and seven custom-built bodies one year ago, the line was increased with additions of new, exquisite colors and upholstery, and new custom-built bodies by Fisher, Fleetwood and Brunn. In the latest announcement, besides further new creations by individual coach builders, six entirely new body models are added in the standard and Fisher custom-built lines, and in each of four of these custom-built body types two styles are represented, the rear quarters being finished either in metal or in cabriolet styles, with leather and ornamental bows.

A welcome addition to the custom-built line is the two-passenger convertible coupe. The complete line now totals 50 different body types and styles.

ENTERPRISE
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—It was a hot day and the beach was a long way off. So Samuel Kipperman got a monkey wrench, turned on a city fire hydrant and sold bathing privileges. All went well until a policeman happened along. Magistrate Corrigan assessed the fine.

NOVEL HUMMOBILE EXHIBITIONS PLAN

Those who are concerned in trying everything new in automobiles will be interested in the recent announcement of the Hupp Motor Car corporation that it is conducting a "demonstration fortnight" during which time the public is invited to visit Hummobile showrooms, to see the new straight eight and go out for a drive. The appointments may be arranged with the salesmen and a car will be sent to your door for you to enjoy a ride over your favorite route. Special emphasis is placed on the "without obligation to buy" feature, according to Hancock brothers, Hummobile dealers here.

For those who do not wish to drive themselves, but desire the salesman to chauffeur for them, a series of novel "stunts" have been arranged. Cars will be started without the usual starter pedal, low curbs mounted in high gear with the motor scarcely revolving; with the speedometer masked, the occupant will be asked to guess the speed—these and other performance tests have been arranged to make the demonstration ride more than ordinarily entertaining.

TROUT IN HAWAII
LIHUE, Kauai, Aug. 14.—The common American brook trout has adapted itself to Hawaii, development of the fish in the fresh waters of this island indicate. During the last few years introduction of trout into Kauai streams has been undertaken by fish and game wardens. Trout fishing is becoming a favorite pastime. Several trout caught recently measured 12 inches and over.

Spray Citrus Trees Now

Spray your citrus trees now with VOLCK, while the scale are small and most easily and economically controlled. Early control also prevents the pest from devastating the trees and robbing them of the starches and sugars needed to put size and quality into the fruit.

VOLCK KILLS CITRUS SCALE

Mid-summer scale control has been made possible by this unique material, which has a margin of safety several hundred percent greater than any other spray, and can be safely applied any time of year. VOLCK kills Black Scale, Red Scale, Purple Scale, Yellow Scale, Citricola Scale, Mealy Bug, and most other citrus insect pests, and is especially valuable in the eradication of Red Spider. It is a spray of the "quick-breaking" type, and quickly covers the sprayed surface with a uniform oily film, which saturates and penetrates both adult and adult with deadly effectiveness, and greatly retards reinfestation.

For clean, healthy trees and maximum production of fancy fruit, spray with VOLCK and spray early.

PAIGE AND JEWETT SHIPMENTS RECORD

Shipments of Paige and Jewett cars during the first six months of the year established a new high record for the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company. The shipments totaled 27,015 cars, surpassing materially the company's previous best record for six months, made in the first half of 1925, when the total cars shipped were 24,986.

Commenting on the company's record, H. M. Jewett, president, predicted continued success. "The outlook for the future is excellent," he said, "and it is the opinion of the management that we will have better business during the last six months of 1926 than we ever enjoyed during the second half of any previous year."

The increased shipments are a reflection of the quick recognition that was won by the new Paige models, the brougham and the cabriolet roadster, which scored instant success.

PROFESSOR WANTS SMALLER CONGRESS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—A smaller congress but one of higher mental calibre is declared by Prof. Jeremiah S. Young, of the University of California political science department, to be this nation's need.

"The house of representatives would work better if it were one-fourth its present size and its members' salaries twice as large. The offer of that amount might attract men worth that much," he declared.

The professor also hit non-partisan politics. He said:

"We have to be loyal to families, church, government, etc.; why not be loyal to political parties? Join a party which coincides as nearly as possible with your beliefs and then stay in it. Those who avoid party affiliation are killing their only chance for taking part in the government of their country."

Last Concrete Poured for Electric Project in High Sierras

When the last batch of concrete was slid through the chutes into the crest of the great Florence Lake dam, spanning the south fork of the San Joaquin river, in the High Sierras, about 100 miles north-east of Fresno, yesterday afternoon, the Southern California Edison company brought to completion another of its great construction projects, according to advices received by District Manager W. L. Deimling.

This dam, which crosses the river just down stream from the north portal of the Florence Lake tunnel, which was completed in February, 1925, has a crest measurement of three-fifths of a mile in length, and is the longest multiple arch dam in existence. Its construction will bring into the landscape another mountain lake in the High Sierras, which will vie with Huntington lake in its wild and picturesque beauty. Its shore line will be approximately nine miles in circumference, compared with the 141-2 mile shore line of Huntington lake in its wild and picturesque cliffs so precipitate that they can only be negotiated over a few trails reaching to the pine-clad peaks.

Work Starts in 1924

The excavation for the Florence dam was commenced in the fall of 1924. The first concrete was poured in March, 1925, and pouring continued during the summer of 1925 and up to yesterday, when the work was completed. Concrete cannot be mixed and poured in the frigid altitudes of these mountain regions during the winter, so that the actual building was confined to the summer months. The dam has a maximum height above the channel of the river of 147 feet. All of the cement used in the dam was manufactured in California. The unique feature of this construction is that the rock and sand for the concrete were materials salvaged from the excavation of the Florence tunnel, consisting of hard gray granite hauled out to the dump while the tunnel was being constructed.

From the reservoir, it was necessary to cut a large number of pine trees. A sawmill was set up in the reservoir site and, as the trees were felled, the logs were hauled to the mill by caterpillar tractors and made into lumber. This lumber furnished most of the material used in the forms for shaping the dam and the auxiliary structures incident to building it.

50 Trainloads of Materials

In the construction of this dam, the San Joaquin and Eastern railroad, a subsidiary company of the Southern California Edison company, performed another valuable service in transporting some 50 trainloads of cement, reinforcing steel and commissary supplies. From the northeast terminus of the railroad at the electric city of Big Creek, the material had to be hauled by truck over about 31 miles of mountain road, which was primarily constructed for building the Florence Lake tunnel.

During the active period of the summer seasons, while the Florence Lake dam was in progress, 700 men were employed upon the project. For the most part, these men will be transferred to other construction projects which the Southern California Edison company has under way on its Big Creek-San Joaquin river development that has now been steadily and consistently progressing for the last 14 years.

DEER SEASON OPEN IN THREE DISTRICTS

Deer season opened on August 1 in district Nos. 2, 2-12 and 3, which take in the following counties:

Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, one-fourth of the west side of Kern county; west half of Kings county; one-third on the west side of Fresno county; Monterey, San Benito; the west half of Merced; west half of Stanislaus; Santa Clara, Alameda; the west half of San Joaquin; Santa Cruz, San Mateo, San Francisco, Marin, Contra Costa, Solano, Yolo, Napa, Sonoma, Lake, Colusa, Glenn and Mendocino, according to recent information received from the touring department of the National Automobile club.

There are a great many fish and game reserves in the above counties that are closed at all times to the public. Hunters are allowed to kill two bucks in these districts and the season closes on September 14.

The law provides for five days of grace in districts Nos. 2, 2 1/2 and 3 after the close of the season in which to remove the deer. It is unlawful to carry deer into closed districts.

The shades, topped with white cross-pieces, came to the fore with the warmer weather and give the countless chauffeurs a uniform appearance. They also remove the pugnacious aspect some drivers unconsciously assume with battered caps.

RODENT IS UNHURT IN 13-STORY LEAP

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 14—A leap from the thirteenth floor of the new John D. Spreckels building was made here without loss of life or even serious injury.

A large rat made the plunge and scampered away after it struck the ground, according to L. G. Morton, inspector for the John D. Spreckels company, and others who saw the rat make it dive of 130 feet.

"The rat was discovered on the scaffold at the thirteenth floor," said Morton. "Workmen began chasing the rodent and, in its fright, it jumped. Men watched it make the drop, as it turned numerous somersaults. They expected to find the rat smashed to a pulp."

"But were made, whether or not the rat would be found. Men declared they saw it strike the ground and run under the deck. Search was made and not even a spot of blood was found on the ground."

Spanish Monarch Devotes Fortnight to Carefree Life in England

LONDON, Aug. 14—A fortnight of carefree living ended for Alfonso Hapsburg-Bourbon the other day, and the gates of his prison closed on him again with a clang.

For 15 days, a virtual ticket-of-leave man, he wandered where he listed. He "diked up" in glad rags and was the gayest of the gay at riding clothes and played polo. He dived in unexpectedly in a Spanish restaurant and took pot-luck.

He went to Wimbledon and cheered a famous Spanish beauty who competed in the women's tennis championship games.

The scowl came off his lips, the frown off his forehead. But now all that is over and done with, and it's back to exile for him.

All of which is a way of saying that Alfonso XIII, Spain's poor little rich king, has left behind him the freedom and ease of England for the staff decorum, the heavy formality, the gloomy palaces and anarchist plots of the Spanish court.

It was fine while it lasted. Alfonso enjoyed his vacation as much as does any young man. To his delight, he found his life in England to be a relief.

In England he could do everything he wanted to do. In Spain he can't. Tradition hangs with heavy hand over the Spanish monarch. There always are bombs just around the corner.

Gentleman on Holiday

In Spain, Alfonso always is king. In England, incognito, he is a gentleman out for a holiday.

In Spain, he is aloof. In England he is a mixer.

Over here he looks at tennis and polo. In Spain, he looks at a grim museum he has collected for himself. His chief exhibits are fragments of bombs, poisons, daggers, and other lethal weapons designed to cut his life short.

Alfonso thinks that what is to be will be. Therefore all the attempts upon his life have failed to sour him or frighten him.

He has been king longer than any monarch in Europe. As he was a posthumous heir, he was king from the moment he was born, on May 17, 1886, and was brought in on a great silver salver and displayed to the grandees.

When he was a mere babe, watchful attendants thwarted a plot to poison him. In 1905, when he was driving through Paris streets with the French president, a bomb was flung at his carriage.

On His Wedding Day
People remembered his ominous title, Alfonso XIII, on his wedding day, May 31, 1906, when he drove through Madrid streets with his bride, Princess Elena of Battenburg, cousin of England's king.

A bomb was thrown. The horses were killed. Twelve persons lost their lives. The very uniform of the bridegroom and the white dress of the bride were splattered with blood.

In 1913, an assassin shot at him and barely missed him. Last year, when he visited in Barcelona, the hotbed of the reds, a bomb was found in the cathedral where he was to visit.

Shortly afterward when he was traveling by rail from Barcelona to the capital, another bomb was discovered in a big tunnel.

Why, on his very way to England via Paris for the vacation he just finished, another murder plot was foiled?

SHOUP QUITS OIL JOB

PERSONALITIES SUGGEST HEALING GOVERNOR RAGE

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14—With California's primary election only 17 days away, candidates for state offices, the legislature and U. S. senator today gridded their loins for the closing battle of the campaign.

Chief interest centers around the three-cornered fight for the Republican nomination for governor, sought by Gov. Friend W. Richardson, Lt. Gov. C. C. Young and Judge Rex B. Goodell.

Entrance of Senator Hiram Johnson into the campaign has served thus far only to make the outcome more problematical, according to state capital political circles.

Johnson Opposes Governor
Senator Johnson, who is participating for the first time in a campaign in which he is not a candidate, has taken up the cudgels against Governor Richardson and U. S. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge also seeking renomination. Johnson will invade Sacramento Monday night, for his second political address.

The fiery senator injected a new issue into the gubernatorial contest, control of the state government. Richardson forces countered by pointing out that for the first time in history the state treasury has shown a surplus. Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, this week took an active part in the contest, attacking Governor Richardson's attitude toward education.

Senator Johnson, after his speech here Monday, will go south for an address in Santa Ana, August 21, and will speak in San Francisco August 26.

Richardson in South
Governor Richardson, in the meantime, is carrying his campaign to Southern California and is devoting considerable time to women's organizations. He addressed a large gathering of women in San Francisco this week, and is scheduled to address a women's group the coming week in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

Judge Rex B. Goodell completed a tour of the San Joaquin valley and during the coming week will make short campaign trips from his central office in San Francisco.

What the attitude of Los Angeles will be toward the leading candidates for governor and U. S. senator is causing much speculation in political circles here. Young backers declare that this populace region will back him and Robert M. Clarke to a man on a basis of their attitude toward the Boulder dam question, while the Richardson forces point to the governor's survey of water resources for Southern California and pledges of cooperation to any government project that will bring relief.

Following his tour of Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, Senator Shortridge is taking his campaign to Southern California this week end and will be back in San Francisco in 10 days.

Judge Clarke is touring the valley towns, while Congressman Linberger is active in various sections of the state.

Regardless of the claim made by many of the candidates, general opinion is that developments of the next two weeks will decide the election. That the campaign is growing hot is evidenced by the growing tendency toward personalities in many of the recent addresses.

BIBLE STUDENTS MEET

FRESNO, Aug. 14—With delegates present from all parts of the state, the San Joaquin Valley Bible Students' association opened its annual convention here today. The meeting will close Monday night.

HELEN WILLS NOT TO DEFEND HER TITLE

BILLY EVANS

TILDEN AND CHANDLER
Possibly Champion Bill Tilden has slipped a trifle, but he is still quite a tennis player.
Recently, while in Boston, I had the opportunity of watching the titleholder in two matches, one of them with the highly touted youngster from the west, Edward G. "Bud" Chandler.
Chandler is the young man Bill Johnston calls a better player to-day than Vincent Richards. Among his tennis titles is that of the intercollegiate champion.
Incidentally, Chandler has already this season beaten Bill Johnston, so it is only natural that the diminutive Californian should have a high opinion of his ability. Johnston is No. 2 player in the national ranking.
Chandler also has to his credit a win over Harara, the No. 7 ranking player. These two victories are outstanding in the tennis feats Chandler has performed this year.

DIDN'T PROVE IT

It was my very good fortune to watch the match between Chandler and Tilden, which experts agreed would test the champion to the limit.
In "Bud" Chandler, Tilden met the best of the rising group of young players, one of whom is certain to sometime wear the crown of champion, for even the peerless Tilden must come to the end of the road.
I expected to see Tilden hard pressed because of the prowess attributed to Chandler and the fact that most of the experts feel Tilden is slipping.
Too much theater (Tilden is also an actor), just fair condition and the loss of much of the old-time enthusiasm that always featured his play, are given as a few of the reasons for the champion's supposed slump.
Perhaps Tilden has gone back, but the Chandler match didn't prove it.

ONLY 55 MINUTES

Tilden required only 55 minutes to defeat Chandler in three straight sets.
While Tilden's stage debut has been no brilliant success, he has always been a star actor on the tennis courts.
Having sublime confidence in his own ability and appreciating the thrill that goes with a close match, Tilden has invariably played "possum."

It has been not at all uncommon for him to carry his opponent along, giving him the solace of having played the champion a close match, even though eventually defeated.
There was no fooling on the part of Tilden in his match with Chandler. He went about his duties in a business-like manner, apparently having decided to defeat the challenger as quickly and decisively as possible.
And he certainly did.

FATHER ORDERS CHAMPION NOT TO ENTER PLAY

Physical Condition After Operation Such That She Cannot Do Game Justice

BERKELEY, Aug. 14.—Helen Wills, national woman's tennis champion, will not defend her title in the national tournament next week, Dr. C. A. Wills, her father, told the United Press.
"Helen always goes by my advice and I have told her definitely not to play," Dr. Wills said.
"The showing she made yesterday against Mrs. Mallory plainly proved that she is not in condition following her recent operation and she will not have a chance to get in condition before the tournament starts."
Told that Mrs. Wills, in the east with Helen, has said the champion probably would play next week, Dr. Wills reiterated "Helen takes my advice in such matters. I am confident she will not play."
Dr. Wills scoffed at Paris reports that Miss Wills may turn professional.
"There is nothing to it," he said. "Helen will remain an amateur."

To Practice Today

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Helen Wills will practice this morning at the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hills and will defend her title as national woman's champion there next week, Mrs. C. A. Wills, her mother, said here today.
After her defeat by Mrs. Molla Mallory, 8-6, 6-4, 6-2, in the semifinals of the New York state championships at the Westchester-Biltmore club here yesterday, it was reported that Miss Wills realized her operation had left her unfit for such strenuous play and that she would ask her father's advice about taking a long rest.

DICK HOPPE GETS WIN FROM ROSEN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Charles Rosen, New York's clever lightweight, may return to the big city convinced that he can defeat men rated higher in the pugilistic scale than Dick Hoppe, but never will he meet a gamer man than the Glendale veteran.
Hopelessly behind on points in the sixth round, fighting Dick completely smothered Rosen and pulled victory seemingly out of the air by a stirring late round rally that had the packed Hollywood Legion arena roaring in its approval.
Rosen had things all his own way in the early rounds. He won the second, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds and two were even. Then Dick started on his jamboree. He stopped Rosen's rush in the seventh, got going in the eighth, and had Rosen all but out in the ninth round.
The ninth was the pay-off. Hoppe knocked Rosen on three occasions. He landed two vicious uppercuts as Rosen came in that almost put the New Yorker down.
As an indication of the Glendale boy's uphill battle, sportively inclined ringiders were offering in the sixth round 10-6 that Rosen would win—with few takers. The referee's decision, nevertheless, was wildly acclaimed.

Mother of Twins Slightly Improved

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Betty Becker Pinkston, 1924 Olympic champion diver, remained in a precarious condition here today, following the birth of twin babies, a boy and girl.
She was "slightly improved" however, hospital attendants said, and spent a restful night.
Mrs. Pinkston is the wife of Clarence Pinkston, champion Olympic diver in 1920.
The babies were reported doing well.

"DOC" CRANDALL KEEPS PITCHING ON

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Ten years ago O.G.s "Doc" Crandall found the major league whirl a bit too tough.
For several seasons up to that time "Doc" had been one of the pitching stars on the payroll of the New York Giants. Not only could "Doc" fool the batters, but he was something of a clubber himself; in fact, when not on the hilltop he was often used in the role of pinch-hitter—and had the happy faculty of coming through.
When old "Doc" Crandall found the big league stuff a bit beyond him, he drifted westward, finally winding up with Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast circuit. That was in 1916. And with Los Angeles he's been ever since.

During his sojourn with the west coast club Crandall has turned in an impressive record. In only two seasons he has dropped more games than he has won—in his first campaign he copped 11, losing 17, and in 1923 his record was 17-19.
Four times the veteran has reached the "20-game" mark in victories, and winning 20 brushes a season is considered quite a feat nowadays. Oddly enough, his best performance was turned in last year when he won 20 titles and lost but seven. Just to show you he can still bust 'em as of old he hit for the fifty average of .356 a year ago.
This season Crandall has been registering victories in the same old way. At the halfway point he had nine wins against two defeats. He's out to hang up another "20" figure by the end of the chase.

SANTA ANA TENNIS STARS PLAY SUNDAY

The Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce Tennis team will go to El Monte Sunday to play the El Monte Tennis club. The locals haven't been playing much tennis lately and are not in the best of condition, but should defeat El Monte by a close margin. The match will be played on the El Monte high school courts and will start at 10 A. M. A return match will be scheduled in the near future and will be played in Santa Ana.
The team will line up as follows: John Cress, Don Jerome, Clifford Marston, Emil Foust, E. Pettitt and Kenneth Ranney.

Picking of Cotton Will Start Soon

CALEXICO, Aug. 14.—Cotton picking in the delta regions of Lower California will start soon, according to reports of field men this week.
In several large tracts picking already is being started. The operators announce they are in readiness to take care of the crop as it comes in, but growers have been urged to wait until the quantity is large enough to make picking and baling profitable.
Cotton picking in the area north of the boundary line in this vicinity is probably to be two weeks said. Most growers indicate September as being the time for picking here.

OLD GRASS HOUSE

HONOLULU, Aug. 14.—No less a personage than the mayor of Honolulu, John H. Wilson, will direct the repairing operations on the old Queen Emma home, a grass-thatched remnant of regal days in Hawaii. The mayor was commissioned by the Daughters of Hawaii, a local organization, because, as a youngster, his honor lived in a grass house at Waikiki. Six hundred bags of pill grass will be used. The Queen Emma home is 75 years old, being completed at the time of King Kamehameha V.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—A campaign to advertise Cuba as an all-year tourist attraction has just been opened in this country by Agustin Aguero, publicity manager for the Cuban tourist commission. THREE PIRATE VETERANS ARE GIVEN RELEASE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 14.—The three oldest players in point of service on the Pirate team of the service on the Pirate team were missing when the team opened a series against the Cincinnati Reds today.
At a dramatic ten minute session held in the Pirate clubhouse last night, it was announced by Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss that waivers had been asked on Max Carey, captain and center fielder of the Corsairs, and that he was suspended without pay until disposed of; Babe Adams, pitcher, and Carson Bigbee, outfielder, were unconditionally released.
The action followed charges that the three worked quietly together to have Fred Clarke, vice president of the club, removed from the bench.
Coinciding with the dismissal of the three veterans, it was announced that "Big" Traynor, third baseman, would be captain of the Pirates to succeed Carey.
None of the players affected by the ruling would make a statement on their dismissal last night.
Dreyfuss, after meeting out the verdict, said: "It was a hard thing to do, but discipline must be maintained and the interests of the public and the ball club protected."

Bill Cole batted four times in the game and chalked up three hits. One counted for four bases, when he slapped the ball over centerfield's head. This was in the fifth inning and was the first score of the game.
The Chamber added another run in the seventh and three more in the ninth on hits.

BOWLING

The Santa Ana Elks Bowling team last night broke even 2 and 2 with the Long Beach Elks in the Southern California Elks tournament match at the Bowlers Inn on West Fourth street last night. Myers of Long Beach had high totals with 587 and "Dutch" Brannon of Santa Ana had high individual game with 242. The scores:

	Long Beach	2nd	3rd	Tot.
Myers	172	212	203	587
Dossett	176	199	134	509
Stevens	174	158	181	513

JUNIOR C. OF C. BEATS LEGION INDOOR TEAM

"Tex" Bergman, star twirler for the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce team in the county league, was "right" last night, and this, coupled with the fact that the bat of one well known Bill Cole was in perfect working order, spelled defeat for the Santa Ana American Legion team, which was "nicked" in a good game at Lincoln field by the score of 5 to 1.
The winning for the Chamber of Commerce team puts them within one game of the top rung of the ladder and at the same time lessens the chances of the Legion team to cop the pennant for which they have been the favorites since the season opened.
The American Legion team is still one game to the good, with two apparently easy games to play before the end of the schedule. By winning last night the Chamber boys probably clinched a hold on second place in the league.
Bergman allowed only three hits during the evening, two of these going to "Memphis" Hill. The Legionnaires' only score came in the ninth inning after Hill walked, stole second and came home on two long flies to the outfield.
Bill Cole batted four times in the game and chalked up three hits. One counted for four bases, when he slapped the ball over centerfield's head. This was in the fifth inning and was the first score of the game.
The Chamber added another run in the seventh and three more in the ninth on hits.

POE'S STORIES: The Masque of The Red Death

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

The "Red Death," a fatal and hideous pestilence, had swept the country. Blood was its seal. There were sudden pains and dizziness, followed by bleeding at the pores. Then came death. Scarlet stains upon the face and body marked the victim and shut him out from sympathy of his fellows.

But the Prince Prospero remained happy, one of the few in the land who remained undaunted by the frightful peril.

With this company he retired to the seclusion of one of his castle-abbey. It was a magnificent structure, surrounded by a wall, with gates of iron. The knights welded the bolts of the gates and bid defiance to contagion, letting the rest of the world take care of itself. They prepared to enjoy life. (Continued)

UNANSWERED LETTERS

Letters each morning, and letters each noon.
Letters from strangers and letters from friends.
Letters from poets enclosing a tune,
Letters which come from the world's farthest ends.
Some day I'll answer them. When, goodness knows!
Still they keep coming and still the pile grows!

Letters which ask if I had an Aunt Kate.
Letters which ask what I like in my tea.
Letters which ask if I'll give them a date.
Talk at a dinner, and what is the fee?
Letters from boosters and letters from foes.
A mountain of letters and still the pile grows!

Letters at morning and letters at night.
And more letters coming by ship and by train.
Well do I know I should sit down to write Answers to all, but I've tried it in vain.
I've done nothing else from a day's start to close
But dictate epistles and still the pile grows!

Think of me kindly whoever you are Whose letter unanswered remains in the stack.
I'll get to it soon if it's not down too far,
It isn't the will, but the time that I lack.
There are hundreds of you to write to, while I Single-handed must tackle the job to reply.

MOVIE-ANA

By GENE COHN

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—They were selecting angels. It was for the "Heaven scene" prologue in "Sorrow of Satan" at Paramount's Astoria studio. A long line of extras waited. Finally the task was ended.
Who, wondered your correspondent, could best qualify for angelic roles? A hasty check of the angels was made. They proved to be:
Carl Morton, a champion spring board jumper from Detroit; Ramon Ramon, sculptor; Joe Gluck, who runs a physical culture school; Albert Kirsch, a real estate salesman; Tom Mallinson, a Broadway song plugger; Ernest Daniels, a professional prize fighter. Indeed, angels could do no more!

Closeups from Manhattan movie lots: "Hurry-up" Yost, the famous Michigan coach, coaching a bunch of movie footballers... With the temperature at 85 degrees... And no mean team, at that... Among them Ed Garvey, all-American tackle for Notre Dame; William Duryea, who played with Fordham; the "Movie" brothers, tackle for Brown; David Butler, who played with Stanford and, of course, Richard Dix, who played with St. Paul Central high, or something like that... The picture is "The Quarterback"...

What becomes of "kid" favorite Way back in 1914 a proud mother of Yonkers, N. Y. brought "Kittens" Reichert to the movie lot for a "baby" part in William Farnum's "The Sign of the Cross".... Remember Bill Farnum, by the way?... "Kittens" was four... Thereafter "Kittens" became the Baby Peggy of her time... She was a baby vamp, impersonating Theda Bara for Fox... And then she disappeared... Like all mortals she grew up... She left the screen and went to school... She's 16 now... Saw her the other day back on the lot playing W. C. Field's flapper daughter in "So's Your Old Man"...

At a Broadway first night recently Adolphe Menjou, with another young man, sat in a box... Between acts six women literally accosted him and made astute comments... One just "loved his work"... Another had been "just crazy to meet him"... Menjou is used to this... His reply to all eager ladies is "Thank you very much"... It doesn't matter what they say... His reply is always the same... He smiles his screen bow and gives a courteous nod... Then he tries to make his way along without further interruption... This is generally unsuccessful... The life of a film notable is not all it's cracked up to be...

Going back to the old home town crowned with glory is the ambition of every lad and lass that comes to Broadway or Hollywood... Few achieve it... But "Buddy" Rogers "went back" the other day... He comes from Olathe, Kas?... Wherever that is... He says it's a town of 300, but you know these native sons... "Buddy" came out to go in the movies... He got in the Paramount school and was cast with the Paramount juniors... But he's going to play leads next... A part hasn't been found for him yet... In Olathe, doubtless, he already has eclipsed 90 per cent of stardom.

Queer Quirks of

-NATURE-

FLOWERS LURE THE BUZZING WANDERER

By ARTHUR N. PACK

President, The American Nature Association

As we see bees hurrying from flower to flower, sipping here and there a taste of nectar, we are apt to think of them as carefree robbers, filching their living from the blossoms, taking all, and giving nothing.

As a matter of reality, however, the flower possesses its bright color and pleasant perfume, and its delicious nectar, for the very purpose of attracting this buzzing wanderer. But do not think that the plant furnishes this entertainment for nothing. Its reward consists of assistance in its most important function, that of reproducing its species. The relations between plants and insects form some of the most interesting chapters of nature's annals.

In the case of the milkweed, here pictured, we have a plant which is practically dependent on the help of insects, to insure its fertilization. However, several classes of insects, bees, beetles, flies and perhaps others, can each perform the necessary office.

The pollen is carried on discs, joined in pairs, which are concealed in pockets around the center of the flower, and so placed that they cannot be removed except by some such instrument as the foot of an insect. In the course of his search for the nectar, the foot of the visitor slips into narrow slits in the flower. In some cases the unlucky insect is unable to withdraw its member, and is held until it dies. Numbers of bees meet their death in this manner, and it has sometimes been necessary to destroy a field of milkweed to prevent the extermination of a valuable colony of bees.

Bee and Flower

"Jazz Age Youth" Works As Hard as It Plays

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I have to come to the conclusion that we do not need to worry so much about the future of America. There has been a lot of talk in the last dozen years or so about the depravity of the next generation, how spoiled it is, how extravagant, useless, pleasure-mad and, yes, even vicious.

We got it into our heads for a while that boys lived to be collegiate, drive roadsters and carry hip-flasks; that girls had no ambition above dancing and petting and possessing 14 flavors of lipstick.

Perhaps if we take the trouble to do more observing and less talking, we may change our minds. Young America may be playing harder—there are certainly more things to play with—but it is working harder and wasting less time per annum than it ever did in the good old days when summer vacations were just one round of mandolin parties and buggy rides. The sweet old summer rolled sweetly and idly and inanely on in the nineties—and so did the world! You took small part in the world's work.

Now, if you check up a list of the college boys home on vacations you will find tens of thousands of them doing the hardest kind of work. They are working with their hands, too, in mines, on roads, in hot steel mills, on buildings, everywhere. They may have collegiate clothes of the largest cut hanging in their closets during the day, but ten to one they have earned the money themselves!

And the girls! Let us go on with our checking and follow the census man from door to door. The girls are still learning to cook, and to do housework. They have learned a bit about managing, too. And you'll find all sorts of schools full of ambitious girls taking special summer courses. Girls are beginning to realize the emptiness of society life. Don't knock the boys and girls. They have their own way of doing things. To quote Joseph Joubert, of a century gone, "To respect the past and mistrust the present are the ways to provide for the safety of the future." Perhaps that is why we do it.

Antique hunters are scouring the country for treasure. They pay small fortunes for tables and chairs which are on their last legs. But they have overlooked this speed-wagon. It's a two ox-power "poke along"—model 1860; body by the village carpenter; genuine mud finish, will withstand all weather conditions; two rumbling wheels standard equipment; comes down the roads in the south complete with spare whip and grinning darkey; guaranteed to make four miles to a peck of feed.

FIREPROOF FISH

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—A new shipment of fireproof fish, or "desert minnows" has just been received. The type thrives in Southern California and Mexico, getting their name from the fact that they abound in hot water springs. Part of the shipment received was found disporting in water that was 129 degrees in temperature.

DROUGHT-PROOF?

The different varieties were gathered from all parts of the United States. Harvey J. Secon, noted plant breeder of Sidell, Ill., is to make observations.

The Beauty Doctor

CONDITION—Hair that has lost its "life," and consequently falls more rapidly than it should.

DIAGNOSIS—With the present bobbed styles, too many women neglect the daily brushing that all belles used to consider as necessary as cleaning the teeth.

TREATMENT—Divide the hair into small strands, and apply tonic in it, and stimulates the scalp in a most healthful fashion.

Massage this thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips. Then get out the hairbrush and brush, but instead of stroking downward, hold the strands of hair up, and brush upward. This loosens the hair from the scalp, removes the dust and particles that are bound to settle in it, and stimulates the scalp in a most healthful fashion.

A matter of time

When you first met one of the people now your friends, he was only a face and a name. You saw him oftener, listened to him, learned what he was doing, what his friends thought of him... claimed him yourself as friend. It was only a matter of time.

It is only a matter of time before you will also claim as friend many a product which advertising is introducing to you. It may be a truer watch, a quieter door-closer, a longer wearing silk stocking, a better oil for your car. If you notice more in the advertisement than just appearance and name, you may want to be friends at once. You will learn what the product means to others and can helpfully mean to you. Advertisements tell you frankly all that makes a product friendly. Qualities, mannerisms—what the watch, door-closer, oil is in the habit of doing. Advertisements make you acquainted before you give the product your faith. Since you choose your friends often, why not keep your choice wise?

Two Win Release Because Witness Hears Labor Call

ORANGE, Aug. 14.—Alessandro Chavaz, 20, and Chris Aquila, 24, Mexican residents of El Modena, who were arrested recently on a peeping charge, owe their freedom to the call to labor of Frank Martinez, who signed the complaint against the two men.

Chavez and Aquila were sojourning in the county jail following their pleas of not guilty to the charge, when Martinez called at local police headquarters and asked for their release.

Because work in the El Modena section was becoming scarce, Martinez decided that he would have to journey elsewhere and thus would not be able to appear against the prisoners.

MAN BRINGS SUIT AGAINST PARTNER

Albert E. Stuelke, Fullerton business man, has filed suit in superior court against his partner, George Kohlenberger, to dissolve their partnership in a music, radio and electrical business. Stuelke asks appointment of a receiver for their business and an accounting of their affairs.

In the complaint filed by Stuelke, through Attorney J. E. Conkey, he charges that Kohlenberger has been neglecting their business.

Under a partnership agreement entered into April 6, 1925, it was provided that Stuelke should contribute the stock, lease and good will of the business while Kohlenberger contributed his expert knowledge and experience.

Kohlenberger, it was arranged, should have a drawing account of $35 a week, the unused portion to be credited to his account until he should have paid for a half-interest in the business.

Since May, Stuelke charges, Kohlenberger has not devoted his attention to the business. Kohlenberger's actual investment in the business does not now exceed $300, Stuelke states.

Anaheim Man Is Fined at Beach On Speed Charge

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 14.—A plea of not guilty and a jury trial failed to clear Donald P. Miller, of Anaheim, on a charge of speeding yesterday. Miller was arrested recently by Motorcyclist Officer Harry Riggs and charged with traveling 35 miles an hour through a 20-mile zone.

Miller declared he was not guilty and charged that the officers "have to make so many arrests to hold their jobs and I was just one of the unlucky ones."

A unanimous verdict of guilty was returned by the jury and Miller was fined $40 by City Recorder Leonard. He announced his intention of appealing the case.

King George On 2-Month Outing

LONDON, Aug. 14.—King George has closed up his desk, pushed back his office chair and gone for his annual vacation—two months with full pay. He will spend most of his time in the field, while Queen Mary, now that the social season is at an end, will pass a great deal of time visiting relatives and intimate friends.

For several days the ruler was the guest of the Duke of Richmond at his picturesque Sussex place, driving over informally to Goodwood for the races every day with the duke.

Then will come yachting at Cowes and later the king will go to Yorkshire for grouse shooting. In September the king and queen will enjoy the Scottish fall weather at Balmoral.

THE GRAMMAR school sessions will begin on August 23. The old high school building, which has been used as a clubhouse, has been remodeled and is to be used for the first grade children leaving more room for the other grades.

Merritt, city assessor, presented last night to the city council, shows a gain this year of $169,560 over last year. DISHED UP FOR ORANGE COUNTY!!

Well, well, it is "discovered" that "Boulder Dam Facts" was prepared especially for distribution in Orange county.

If you haven't heard, "Boulder Dam Facts" is a statement prepared by the Southern California Richardson Newspapers committee. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that it is the plan of the chairman of that committee to "flood" Santa Ana with Richardson literature during the last few days of the campaign.

But that's another story. Just now let's hear about "Boulder Dam Facts," especially prepared for consumption in Orange county.

John E. King, state printer, is quoted as authority for the statement that the pamphlet was gotten out "for circulation in Orange county."

Recognizing that the voters of Southern California are insistent upon voting on August 31 along Colorado river development lines, the supporters of Governor Richardson have made a desperate effort to get him aboard the Boulder dam project.

First, came Richardson's silence concerning the Swing-Johnson bill, which, up to the present, he has not endorsed.

Then, on July 27 came Congressman Phil D. Swing's statement in which he said that "During the entire time that the battle was being waged in Washington in behalf of this great project, Governor Richardson and his official family were conspicuous by their absence. The Governor in a recent statement, which has been given wide publicity, makes the claim 'at my request the late state engineer, McClure, attended the congressional hearings in Washington.' That statement is untrue. I attended every hearing and I know McClure was never present. The truth is that Governor Richardson's ignorance, indifference and at times active hostility to the Colorado river program, as embodied in the Swing-Johnson bill, has in the past seriously embarrassed the friends of the project and handicapped the work in its behalf. His sudden activity at this time is not impressive."

Then, came this statement, "Boulder Dam Facts," in which the Governor is asserted to have been working quietly through the state engineer's office and to have discovered a better route for an aqueduct than that selected by Engineer Mulholland.

Next, came the admission, in Mulholland's presence, of State Engineer Paul Bailey, appointed by Richardson, that he had made no survey, but had an idea that a new route was feasible.

Right then, came H. A. Van Norman, aqueduct engineer, who said "Boulder Dam Facts" contained gross misrepresentation, and who challenged in apt phrases and direct from the shoulder any of the Richardson committee of editors to point out to him Governor Richardson's "great discovery." Van Norman's statement rather embarrassed the committee handling "Boulder Dam Facts," prepared for circulation in Orange county.

Whereupon, Joseph Timmons, Los Angeles newspaperman, well known in Santa Ana, began having some fun with the Los Angeles headquarters maintained for Richardson campaign purposes.

Timmons said the young lady in the headquarters told him that John E. King, Democrat, Hemet editor, appointed as State Printer by Richardson, was in charge. Mind you, King, a Democrat, in charge—and this is a campaign for nominating a Republican for Governor! King told Timmons he wouldn't go out on the desert to show where Richardson's "great discovery" is located.

Here are a few succulent paragraphs from Timmons' report of his visit:

King had no idea whether other Richardson editors of the Southern California committee would accept Van Norman's invitation for the desert trip.

"What do you think of that document, 'Boulder Dam Facts,' published by them, which makes so much of Paul Bailey's aqueduct line as a great achievement of the Governor's?" I inquired.

"I had nothing to do with it," King replied. "The Orange County editors, headed by Justice Craemer, got it out, for circulation in Orange County."

"It was not printed at the State printing office, then?"

"No, indeed. The only campaign matter we have printed was about 200 large pictures of the Governor, which we charged to the Governor's contingent fund."

King declined to comment on "Boulder Dam Facts" and its big-type account of the Richardson-Bailey "great discovery," for Orange County consumption, and its embarrassing position as a campaign document now that State Engineer Paul Bailey has admitted that he has made no discovery of a better aqueduct route than that tentatively selected by William Mulholland.

"You'll have to ask Justice Craemer of the Orange News about that," King said.

Timmons had another interview. It was with Harlan Palmer, editor of the Hollywood Citizen, because Palmer's name appeared at the head of a campaign committee list published in a number of Richardson papers.

"It was put there without my knowledge or consent," Palmer said. "I notified them that it was my policy not to let myself up to candidates but to wait for campaign developments before giving my support to any one, and asked them to withdraw my name from the list, which they did."

"Have you seen the committee's campaign document, 'Boulder Dam Facts,' the one which Van Norman declares to be a piece of 'gross misrepresentation'?"

"Yes, I have a copy of it."

"Do you think the committee is justified in circulating that, when State Engineer Paul Bailey admits he has not found any aqueduct route superior to Mulholland's?"

"Not being a member of the committee I am not chargeable with its errors," Palmer replied.

"You recognize the McClure report, which is praised in this committee's 'Boulder Dam Facts,' as a document antagonistic to the Boulder Canyon project, do you not?"

"Yes I do. It is antagonistic."

"You recognize State Engineer Paul Bailey's talk of diversion of water for irrigation as well as domestic use and of other sites than Boulder Canyon being as good for California's needs, as antagonistic, do you not?"

"I think I recognize a lot of things," Palmer replied. "I am watching closely. I have always been the friend of the real champions of the Boulder Canyon project, and I shall support only its true friends. That is why I do not serve on campaign committees. In matters of such vital importance as the Boulder Canyon project I believe I have a higher duty as a citizen than to help elect even a personal friend, regardless of his stand on that issue."

We take it, it's about time for "Boulder Dam Facts" to be sidetracked from circulation, even in Orange county.

Politics and Niagara Falls

Fresno Republican

Our politics, national or local, is not only politics that interferes with the practical handling of the affairs of government or of the public. A rather striking example of this is the delay in the attempts to save the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls that is caused by the turbulence of current Canadian politics.

Secretary Hoover of the United States department of commerce is endeavoring to put a stop to the wearing away of the lip of the falls at a particular place. At one point the wearing away process has been going on faster than at others, and the more it wears, the greater the wear, for the water is being drawn to that point, leaving other portions of the lip dry and pulling the water in greater force into the wearing spot.

It is hoped to stop this by the building of an artificial island at a point above the falls. This proposal has been informally agreed to by the Canadian government. But the Ottawa administration will not sign it formally. Why? Because they have a dominion election coming on. They do not know whether any sort of an agreement with the United States, even on such a trivial matter as this, would be agreeable to the jingo type of Canadian voter. So the question must go over for some months, and the "Niagara's bad tooth" will ache for another season. All for politics!

Just as they have jingoes in the United States who are afraid that the United States will be licked by some sort of an all-European agreement, so in Canada there are people who would not sign a treaty to save Niagara falls for fear that Uncle Sam was preparing to job them in some way.

Cheap Recklessness

San Diego Union

In connection with his design to gain a nationwide co-operation for greater traffic safety on American Highways, Secretary Hoover yesterday emphasized once more the startling figures on traffic fatalities. In the last year, Mr. Hoover said, accidents on the highways of this country have caused more than 30,000 deaths and a property of approximately $600,000,000. The property loss, huge as it is, is astonishingly disproportionate to the loss of life, and in that fact is to be found one of the reasons why the toll of the highways is so great.

Put in one way, the figures show that traffic deaths are cheap deaths—one fatality to every $2000 worth of property involved in highway accidents. The accidents that cause a hastily total of killings, occur at the expense of a property damage which is relatively very small.

One of the fundamental causes of traffic recklessness is this item of the very small amount of property value which possesses a very great potential killing power. Concretely, a man can buy a "wreck" for $65, put it on the highway, beg, borrow or steal his car, and by that simple and inexpensive process become perhaps as great a menace to the life and limbs of his fellow motorists as though he had invested $6500 in his means of locomotion. Motoring is relatively cheap; and the result is that the average motorist—certainly the average reckless driver—has very little financial responsibility. That freedom from responsibility is a factor encouraging carelessness.

Some states have laws imposing liability bonds upon careless drivers. In time the country as a whole will have to adopt some general restraint of the sort.

Breeding Fake News

Fresno Republican

Some one, wiring from Moscow, denounces the reports recently sent out, of a serious widespread insurrection in Russia as a shameless fake. Perhaps it was. And perhaps this present report from Moscow, is itself a "shameless fake." We can't know, until weeks after, the succession of events shows us whether daily news is right or wrong.

Freedom in news is the only assurance that we have of the value of daily news.

When there is any sort of control of news, then all news that we get may be lies. The government, which undertakes to see that no false news is sent out, next tries to see that no news that is injurious to it is sent out. The next step is to determine that no news that is displeasing to the persons in the government is permitted to go out. Then the final step, that of creating news reports for the sake of the favorable impression that is desired.

Lying news is bad, but much better than free news, if it does permit occasional lies. For the very fact of freedom is a counter agent to the falsity of news. The close news censorship that the Soviet government maintains is a breeding system of fakes.

Editorial Shorts

In the course of progress and development here in California, some trees must be sacrificed. But it does seem that, in some instances, the hewing down of trees is ruthless folly. No tree should be cut down that can be spared without blocking necessary development. It takes so long for a tree to attain growth, and grow into a tree of such intrinsic value both in an aesthetic and utilitarian sense—that none should be destroyed unless there is good reason for it.—Pasadena Star-News.

Health Topics

Surgeon General, United States Health Service

SPINAL MENINGITIS

Cerebro-spinal meningitis is caused by a germ which produces inflammation of the spinal cord and the membranes covering the brain.

While the disease is regarded as being proportionately more frequent among children, it has been shown that older persons are attacked, at the beginning of the epidemic, just as frequently. It is most prevalent in cold climates during the winter and spring and seems to attack principally those living in ill-ventilated or over-crowded houses.

It is believed now that this disease is most often communicated by "carriers," persons who are not ill, or only slightly ill, but have the germs of meningitis in their noses and throats.

"Spotted fever," as it sometimes is called, begins with a convulsion or chill followed by pains in the muscles, headache, fever, rapid pulse, increased respiration, vomiting and delirium. Small hemorrhages under the skin have given it the name of spotted fever, but these marks are not always present.

Mortality from spinal meningitis remains high, but it has been greatly reduced by early and prompt treatment with a specific serum.

When patients are treated at their homes, isolation of the cases should be enforced by having the patients in a well ventilated and well lighted room which has been cleared of all unnecessary furniture. Most important of all is the examination of those who have come into contact with the sick, or have been exposed in any way. They should receive medical attention daily.

Keerful Now, Uncle

Swimming the Channel

There is a regular epidemic of Channel-swimming this summer. Man after man and woman after woman, and sometimes two or three at a time, take up the struggle against hostile tides and currents, chilling water and smothering fog and other perils of that stormy bit of water separating England and France.

Nearly always they fail.

It is a matter of luck as well as physical endurance, skill and courage. Time after time, a great swimmer has been swept back by an unexpected current or beaten by storm or fog when almost within arm's reach of the goal.

And that goal—what is it? Physically, to clamber up and touch the opposite shore, after starting from either side. Financially, perhaps, to reap some transient reward in the form of theatrical engagements or moving picture royalties. Morally, to have the satisfaction of knowing that the athlete has accomplished what he or she set out to do, and to be able to say, "I've done it."

We may talk about "cheap glory," we who stay snugly at home and look on, taking our ease. But no one need sneer at this quest. If any individual does not understand it, be sure there are plenty who do.

"Useless" it may seem. Yet what is useless? Surely nothing that stimulates courage and endurance, whether in sport or in more plainly useful endeavor. Was there practical utility in the famous quest of the Holy Grail, or the quest of Childe Roland's Round Tower, so thrillingly depicted by Browning, or in the modern quest for the North and South Poles? Yet all such high enterprises have their value in the realm of the spirit.

RELATIVITY

Wife—There was a poor woman here today after old clothes for her family.

Husband—Did you give her any?

Wife—Yes, I gave her that 10-year-old suit of yours and that dress I bought last week.—From Life.

WELL, MAYBE NOT

Postal Clerk—There's an excess of a two cents in stamps on this letter.

Old Lady—My land! I hope it won't go too far!—Answers, London.

KIDDING A STAR

Film Magnate—Would you consider an offer of $1000 a week? Move Queen—As a joke, yes, but if you want to talk real business, you'll have to jazz it up some. They don't allow tipping in our studio.—Laughter.

PREPAREDNESS

Senator—Have you written your speech yet?

Ditto—No, but I've prepared a statement saying I was misquoted.—Life.

MAKING HASTE

Husband—I hope you will hurry with your dressing, or we shall be late for the opera.

Wife—Hurry? Why, what else have I been doing for the last two hours!—Kasper, Stockholm.

Blizzard in China. Bet they stuck their shirt tails in then. Galesburg, Ill., girl won a rifle championship. Just the same, some brave man may marry her.

There's one nice thing. Before a girl goes swimming she can hide her clothes in her swimming suit bag.

The rising generation's great problem is the cost of gas. We don't need an army. Let our bootleggers sell the enemy. Meeting expenses isn't half so difficult as dodging them.

Be careful when you cross the street. Americans spend 14 billions a year on autos.

One thing wrong here is pedestrians are not made out of rubber.

What could be worse than having a neighbor who rides a motorcycle and plays a saxophone?

By taking a straw vote of the proper people you could prove almost anything almost beyond a doubt.

Having the itch develops the fingers for playing a banjo. Fish will bite better if you will disguise yourself as a country boy.

There is no use in seeking happiness unless you are happy in the seeking.

What's worse than breaking in a pair of new shoes on a summer day?

The importance of your own troubles are magnified, like a glacier would make a fine pet for the warm spell.

SOME LITTLE PROMISER.

One of the best little promisers in the business is U. S. Senator Shortridge, who is a candidate for reelection, on his speaking trip going north from Los Angeles, a couple of weeks since, he got busy as soon as he reached Ventura county, only two hours drive away.

He promised to help Ventura county, in case, of course, of his reelection, to get a federal beach park and a breakwater, at Ventura, where the American navy could be entertained. At Santa Barbara county, only a few miles away, he promised his aid for a breakwater and a new federal building.

And as he goes he promises, literally shedding showers of blessings on his path.

A man who once upon a time owned a finely bred and very handsome dog, who always delighted and gratified at praise of the animal. Any one who praised the dog was promptly offered the present of a pup. "John," said the wife of the generous dog owner, "what do you mean by promising so many pups from that dog? To my certain knowledge, you have now promised to give away more than two hundred pups." "Never mind, dear," was the reply. "It's a mighty mean man who won't promise his friend a pup."

HE IS COMPETENT.—If the plans of the conductor of this more or less interesting column, do not go wrong, he will "accept a situation" as reporter on one of the Los Angeles newspapers, and his application, to that end, is all ready.

He has the needed and necessary vocabulary, for head-writing, all right, and, as evidence that he has, herewith submits it:

Quiz	Looms	Hits
Fiend	Foiled	Netts
Trapped	Solons	Bashed

IT'S A GREAT GAME.—In the matter of popularity "shoot the chutes" has been outgrown, entirely, in Paris, France, by the new game "Hoot the Plutes." A press dispatch reads:

"PARIS, Aug. 5.—Police action was necessary today to protect six auto bus loads of American and English tourists from the insults and jeers of Frenchmen and women as the tourists came out of the historic catacombs in the Latin quarter."

Prejudice against the home city is like a bad case of indigestion—it spreads throughout the system, warps the judgment, sours the disposition and destroys the kind of action that builds and produces.

Grit, determination and will to succeed builds better cities.

THAT a city is just what its citizens make it.

THAT if there is something wrong with its citizens the city is wrong in every way.

THAT cities are judged in a great way by the public spirit of its citizens. More cities die for lack of public spirit than for any other reason.

THAT the future holds wondrous certainties for the city that is full of public spirited citizens.

THAT marvelous development is ahead of the city, that has a spirit of progressiveness; a spirit of progressiveness makes citizens feel better, look better and makes them better fit to do their share of city building.

THAT it takes no superior wisdom to know that a boosting spirit is that indefinable spirit that makes citizens co-operate together in a way that builds bigger, better cities.

THAT in cities where everybody works and nobody shirks you will always find that boosting spirit; a spirit of hospital, co-operation and better fit to do their share of city building.
